

F. H. A. Set Up To Benefit County Supervisor Says

The chief aim of the Farmers Home Administration in Perquimans County is to help families farm better so they can live better. The agency's supervised credit program assists those who cannot get adequate assistance elsewhere to get on a solid footing. In addition, the farm housing program is intended to help improve rural housing conditions where needed, E. L. Morgan, supervisor stated today.

Farm operating loans are made to enable farmers to buy seed, feed, fertilizer, livestock, equipment, or other necessities for production.

Farm Ownership loans are made to eligible applicants to buy, enlarge or develop family-type farms.

Both farm ownership and farm operating loans are accompanied by guidance in good farm practices.

Housing loans are the newest type credit available at the County Office here. Repayable in 5 to 33 years, they help farm owners construct, improve, repair, remodel, or replace houses, or other buildings necessary to farm operations.

Although Perquimans County borrowers lacked enough security for bank credit, they have generally made good with Farmers Home supervised credit. Most repay their loans promptly, with interest, and many pay out months or years in advance.

Thousands of dollars in increased buying power are represented in the greater net worth of FHA families. This means not only better business for local merchants but more tax money to support schools, roads, and other public projects. Still more important, it means better food, clothing, health, more comfortable homes, and more educational advantages for the children. All this is reflected in the families' greater participation in neighborhood affairs and their leadership in schools, churches, and farm organizations.

The Supervisor is aided greatly in his work by numerous individuals and groups—civic, farm, and service organizations, persons in other branches of the State and federal service, church, school and community leaders, county officials, and others.

He feels especially fortunate to have the help of the three prominent, successful farmers who compose his County Committee. These Committeesmen approve applications for loans, certify as to the value of farms, and perform numerous other important duties.
