

Little Publicity Is Given To Law On Farm Machinery

The Department of Motor Vehicles points out a little publicized amendment to the state motor vehicles laws which affects every one owning or merchandising farm machinery. The amendment which became effective in April makes it a misdemeanor for "any person, firm, or corporation to deliberately remove, destroy, or alter any manufacturer's serial or engine number or any other distinguishing number on any piece of farm machinery or apparatus."

The amendment also specifically forbids anyone from re-stamping farm machinery with any serial number not authorized by the Department of Motor Vehicles. According to the section dealing with identification numbers it is unlawful for any firm or person to buy or dispose of any piece of farm equipment bearing a willfully defaced identification number. An affixed new number, issued and authorized by the Department to replace the altered one, is valid and insures a legal transaction.

Dealers in farm machinery are required to furnish the purchaser with a bill of sale bearing the manufacturer's serial number and must guarantee the number to be correct according to his own invoice from the manufacturer. The Motor Vehicle Department makes special provision for owners of damaged farm machinery where the identification number has become unrecognizable. An application to the Department, supported by adequate proof of ownership, may be filed by owners desiring to receive a valid new number for out dated and worn farm machinery. The Department is authorized to issue the number and designate the place and manner in which the new number is to be affixed to the equipment.

at this time, we should know something about the growth and fruiting habits of these crops. Raspberries and dewberries bear most of their crops on new shoots that come out of canes of last season's wood. Each season, after bearing a crop, these canes will die and their place will be taken by new canes which come up from the roots of the plant. The old canes, therefore, should be removed as soon as the crop is harvested. This practice will give more room for the new canes to develop as well as to get rid of diseased plant material.

In Eastern North Carolina a slightly different procedure is used for dewberries. As soon as the crop is harvested, all canes, both old and young, are removed at the ground. Then the land is cultivated and a top-dressing of nitrate of soda is given the plants. In a few days new shoots will appear and make sufficient growth during the rest of the season to produce a good crop the next year. This new growth is allowed to run along the ground and is not tied up to stakes until next spring.

This practice, as outlined, gives a fair control of anthracnose disease of dewberries. The plant growth that is cut off at the ground should be destroyed by burning. In the mountain areas the season is not always long enough to permit the removal of new canes. In that case only the old canes are removed.

Garden Time

Raspberries and dewberries have just about completed bearing for this season, and now is the time to prune them. To understand why we prune

Oil may still the angry waves but it seems to stir up trouble in many areas.

M. Y. F. MEETS

The Methodist Youth Fellowship of the New Hope Methodist Church held its regular monthly meeting Monday night at the New Hope Community House. The meeting was called to order by the vice-president, Harvey Butt, Jr. The devotional and prayer was given by Mrs. Cannon Stallings.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved and roll was called with 20 members and one new member being present. A short business followed. "Whispering Hope" was sung, and interesting reports were given by Sarah Onley and Ann Stallings, who attended Louisburg. Following this, short prayers were given by each member, and Mrs. Will Dail dismissed the group.

Refreshments were served by Faye, Jean and Norma Butt.
