Red Cross Sabbath, Sunday March 1-2

In recognition of American Red Cross service to humanity, the nation's religious groups have designated the week-end of March 1-2 as Red Cross Sabbath and Sunday.

Leaders of Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish congregations across the nation also have endorsed the annual Red Cross fund appeal, which will begin on March 1.

E. Roland Harriman, American Red Cross president, said that it was traditional among clergymen of all faiths to support the Red Cross and to direct the attention of the memberships to the annual fund appeal. Drain on the organization's funds has been due to its greatly expanded activity brought on by the Korean war and by defense training programs.

Uniformed Red Cross volunteers in many communities will attend religious services in groups on the Sunday and Sabbath of special observance.
