

NEW HEAVY BOMBER

The Air Force has partly removed the wraps from its YB-60, an eight-jet heavy bomber, which is the latest U. S. weapon, capable of carrying the atomic bomb to any area of the world. This is the second heavy jet bomber which has reached the field-test stage in production and it will begin taxi-tests in another week or two.

Publicity about these two all-jet heavy bombers should not mislead the American public. The Air Force has just one YB-60 and only two Y-52's—the other all-jet bomber. Because these war planes are giants of complexity, a period of years—not months—is required to put them into mass production. Thus, after one or both of these heavies have been approved for full production, it will be several years before they are rolling off assembly lines in any number.

These two planes are expected, nevertheless, to give the United States the most modern heavy bomber fleet in the world, eventually, and supposedly represent the latest development, and the most advanced production, in the heavy all-jet bomber line.

NEWS BLACKOUT

"When news is suppressed, all the newspapers lost is a story. But the people lose touch with and control of their government." These are the words of James S. Pope, executive editor of the Louisville Courier Journal and the Louisville Times, and chairman of the American Society of Newspaper Editors' committee on freedom.

Many government officials, including those on the local state, and national level, have effected a censorship through the use of closed meetings, buried records, and "no comments."

Undemocratic procedures of this type are a threat to freedom in America. And news blackouts will continue until they are challenged by public indignation.

AN ELECTRIC WRIST WATCH

Within a year, it is expected that one United States watch manufacturer will have on the market a man's wrist watch run by a small electric motor powered by a tiny battery only half an inch long.

The watch has no tick, no main-spring, and no winding mechanism and is expected to keep almost perfect time. Incidentally, it takes only 1/100,000 of a watt to run the watch. The battery will run the watch for over a year and can be replaced at a cost of about 5 cents.

CUT IN THE DEFENSE APPROPRIATION

The House Appropriations Committee cut four billion dollars from a proposed $50,000,000,000 defense appropriation before sending the bill to the House floor. Representative Carl Vinson, who is Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, accepted the House Appropriations Committee cut, but said any further cut would endanger the security of the country.

Vinson said reductions made by the Appropriations group took the "fat" out of budget requests. The job of trimming $4,000,000,000 off the huge defense appropriation request was a complicated task which has engaged the time of the Appropriations Committee since the first of the year.

That Committee gave each House member an eighty-page booklet of "Explanatory Notes," which dealt with almost every item in the bill, after it had voted the $4,000,000,000 reduction. While final congressional action on the defense appropriation bill has not been taken in Congress it is nevertheless encouraging when the Chairman of the Armed Services Committee and the Appropriations Committee agree on an economy the size of the $4,000,000,000 effort recently made.

If similar sentiment is found on the Senate side, where action is not expected for some time, the American taxpayer is likely to be spared some of the sacrifices once thought to be necessary.

AN INTERESTING PROPOSAL

Senator John L. McClellan, Democrat of Arkansas, recently proposed that a Congressional watchdog committee be set up to check on budget recommendations and requests. The veteran Senator claims that the proposed eighteen-member committee would save $100 for every dollar it would spend.

He points out that the Appropriations Committee of the Senate now has only sixteen staff members to handle an $85,000,000,000 budget, and that they are not able to inquire into proposed expenditures as received and worked out by the Executive Branch's Budget Bureau.

While there is some opposition to Senator McClellan's proposal one of the opponents being Senator Kenneth McKellar, of Tennessee, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, the suggestion seems to be aimed in the right direction—toward Government economy. When one realizes that these two appropriations committees in Congress have only small staffs and that their ability to check into the budget requests and conclusions is very limited at best, the merits of Senator McClellan's proposal seem considerable. The proposal would accomplish one of the goals of the 1946 Reorganization Act, which remains unaccomplished today.

KEFAUVER AND VICTORIES

Senator Paul Douglas, of Illinois, recently made an interesting comment concerning the chances of the current crop of Presidential aspirants. Seemingly speaking to Democrats, the Illinois Senator said, "The people are beginning to speak in unmistakable terms and the politicians and the king-makers would do well to listen."

Mr. Douglas's statement has aroused some speculation as to exactly what the words he uttered mean. His statement was made soon after Senator Estes Kefauver defeated Senator Robert Kerr in the Nebraska primary. Kefauver's victory in that primary gave him an unbroken string of victories in the primaries which he has entered this year.

Senator Douglas's words, whether they are good or bad advice, seem to comprise a warning to Democratic politicians, who sometimes ignore candidates' popular appeal. Unquestionably, Senator Kefauver has shown great popular appeal in all sections of the country and whether or not he is the best candidate for the Democratic Party, this fact cannot be entirely ignored.

FLYING CARS

Two flying automobiles recently flew from Connecticut to New York, the drivers shedding the wings within four minutes and driving into New York's busiest streets. As the two contraptions drove down the streets of New York, many by-standers gasped in amazement.

The vehicle cruises in the air at about 110 to 125 miles an hour and can climb to 12,000 feet. It produces about 165 horsepower in flight but only 45 horsepower on the ground. Nevertheless, it is useful and efficient as a ground or air transportation vehicle.

The development of jet engines makes possible the development of a practical and economical air-land travel vehicle. The two latest "airphibians" may herald an era of such craft, which is surely only a few years ahead, and which may revolutionize our private transportation industry.

4. Reduced teacher load where needed.
5. Adequate pay for teachers.
6. Better care for mentally ill.

OLIVE HAS SOUND VIEWS ON TAXES AND FINANCING

Here is what he says:

"I am against any new State taxes or increases in present rates . . . With Federal taxes an ever-increasing burden, our people are entitled to every possible relief at home . . .

"They are also entitled to a government in Raleigh that is vigilant in exercising economy . . .

"The sound investments North Carolina has made in public services over the last quarter-century now are paying off dividends in the form of greater tax returns. These revenues should be sufficient to provide for increases in essential services, and just compensation for school teachers and other State employees, without additional burden upon our taxpayers.

"The time has come to PRUNE—not PLANT—taxes."

OLIVE GOES ON RECORD . . .

"I am a resident of a western county and running for Governor in accordance with the custom of rotation between East and West that has served our State and Party well since Aycock."

"The agricultural and industrial progress of our State is dependent upon our primary road system. It must be made adequate to care for all needs. I believe this can be done on a pay-as-we-ride basis."

"Only a comparatively few of our rural areas are now equipped with telephones. I believe everyone who needs a telephone should have this service. I shall commit every resource possible to speed expansion of this essential utility."

9. Continued betterment of rural roads.
10. Referendum on alcoholic beverages.
11. Fuller development of natural resources.
12. Electricity for all rural homes that want it.
13. Intensive highway safety program.
14. Cost-of-living pay raise for State employees.
15. Honesty and efficiency in government.

"We should continue our school building program as vigorously as conditions permit during the national emergency, to the end that all North Carolina children may attend modern, well-lighted, well-heated, well-equipped and adequately staffed schools. The teacher load should be reduced where it exceeds recognized standards of instructional efficiency."

"North Carolina has made magnificent progress for more than 50 years. This progress must be continued in the realization that the leaders who are elected are placed in office to render service to all the people of the State. I believe that the voters agree with this philosophy of progressive growth. I offer myself as a candidate for Governor in the firm belief that THE PEOPLE OF NORTH CAROLINA DEMAND A LEADER ATTENTIVE TO THE WILL AND NEEDS OF ALL THE PEOPLE, WITH A DEAF EAR TO THOSE WHO SEEK SPECIAL PRIVILEGES."
