Mother's Day

The observance of Mother's Day is a recent one in the United States, beginning only in 1907. Then it was the idea of Miss Anna M. Jarvis, of Philadelphia, that at least once a year sons and daughters should pay tribute to their mothers.

The observance, on the second Sunday in May, has rapidly spread to every part of the United States and the fact that it became a custom in all the states only four years after it had been suggested testifies to the sentiment for such an observance in this country.

In later years the custom of wearing a white carnation on Mother's Day was changed and those whose mothers were still alive wore red flowers, instead of white.

More than anyone else, the mother who cares for both home and her children is destined to influence the character and future of the country. And often this responsibility is combined with a back-breaking and steady ordeal of sewing, washing, mending, cleaning and teaching.

Sinkless Bathing Suit

A British business man said recently that a swim suit would soon appear on the American market which would be unsinkable.

The British manufacturer, Mark Shaw, says the suit has been selling well in England and that it has recently been introduced in Canada.

We can't help but wonder if the modern Bikini contains enough sewing area to make the average young thing unsinkable.

Football and Television

The National Collegiate Athletic Association's Television Committee recently announced that television continued to have an adverse effect on attendance at college football games in 1952.

It is understood that the Committee is ready to recommend a 1953 plan, which would once again control football television strictly.

The decision on which games are to be televised this year will be made at a later date.

The only encouraging thing about the Committee's report was a paragraph which stated: "There is considerable evidence that television, as it is today has already approached its maximum harm to college football attendance and that, with the type of limited TV programs, the heavy losses observed in 1952 will not increase very much in future years because of continued growth in saturation."

The Committee had in mind the fact that about eighty per cent of the total football attendance was already in television areas last year and that only twenty per cent of total attendance is to be in television areas for the first time this year.

football fans to learn that college television will be strictly limited again this year. While we do not criticize the Television Committee of the NCAA, we nevertheless hope to see the day when colleges will be allowed to agree on the television of some, or all, of their games.

Perquimans Seniors Select Superlatives

The senior class of Perquimans High School selected its superlatives this week to appear in the class night exercises.

They are: best looking, Marilyn Baker and Parker Copeland; cutest, Glenda Lane and Cary Stallings; most studious, Marilyn Baker and Jimmy Bergeron; most intellectual, Mabel Martin Wheeler and Billy Chappell; most athletic, Peggy Stokley and Vernon White; most popular, Nan White and Vernon White; most talented, Janice Boyce and Leslie Kirby; wittiest, Hazel Trueblood and Tommy Jones; friendliest, Dorothy Jean Winslow and Carlis Roberson; best all-around, Mary Ann Harris and Fred Matthews, Jr.; best dressed, Bonnie Lou Lane and Fred Matthews, Jr.; and most likely to succeed, Nan White and John Holmes.

Earlier in the year the six seniors outstanding in school activities were selected to appear in the school yearbook. They are: Mollie Lu Yeates, Nan White, Mable Martin Wheeler, Marilyn Baker, Billy Chappell and Fred Matthews, Jr.

The motto of the class is "Not on the heights, but climbing."
