Progress Ahead

Our congratulations to the Hertford Junior Chamber of Commerce for having taken the initiative in the organization of a committee to direct an industrial expansion program for Perquimans County.

As we have proposed before we believe the formation of a well organized committee, representative of all civic organizations of the community, is the stepping stone to future progress and we sincerely hope the temporary committee named at a Jaycee meeting last week will lead to the perfection of the over-all program.

However, if the county is to have progress, the public, in general, must realize a program for industrial expansion is not a problem for this committee alone but one which must have the cooperation of everybody.

Sitting around bemoaning the recent close-down of two industries in the community will lead us nowhere but active acceptance of the challenge offered through the action of the Hertford Junior Chamber of Commerce can lead to progress ahead.

We pledge our wholehearted support to this committee, and its program. Do we hear the same pledge from others?

Educational TV

The Federal Communications Commission wisely set aside a number of TV channels for educational purposes when channel allotments were made several years ago. Because educational TV stations have not been coming into operation rapidly there have been cries from some commercially-interested parties that there is no place or need for them in the American way of life.

Nothing is further from the truth. It is true that only three educational TV stations are on the air (Los Angeles, Houston and East Lansing, Michigan), but about twenty are expected to be operating by year's end. And one noted radio and TV critic predicts they will be a great success.

Jack Mabley, of the Chicago Daily News, says: "Commercial television has become the nation's... salesman. Educational television will be the nation's greatest teacher." There is no reason why that cannot be true.

There is a need for educational—non-commercial—programs on TV. One would like to be able to see when he wishes—educational programs free from commercial propaganda. These programs would include concert music, educational courses in the various fields, vocational programs such as an agricultural lesson on fighting corn borers, sports events, ballet, Shakespeare, and demonstrations showing how mechanical devices work and are repaired, among other things. They would be educational programs—designed only to educate, and uplift the standards of knowledge and understanding among all citizens who wishes to take advantage of them.

Viewers would not have only this. They could choose between a sponsored program and a strictly educational one. But we need both. And we are solidly opposed to the move to allot educational channels not being used to commercial use. In time, as the costs of operating TV stations come down, all the educational channels will be used, and it will provide Americans with a wonderful source of accurate, non-commercial information in their own homes—free of charge.

Your Duty As A Citizen

The editor feels it appropriate, in these controversial times, to point out to readers that they have certain obligations as citizens of the most powerful country in the world, which must be met if the electorate is to be able to act intelligently. One of the first duties of every citizen is that he make an honest effort to be informed on the issues of the day.

This may sound trite, but keep in mind that knowledge is power and also that no citizen can act or talk intelligently if he is not acquainted with the events of the day. Also keep in mind that misinformed citizens, who make both inaccurate and confusing statements, do nothing to lift the level of understanding and intelligence in the community.

Too often in this community, as in other communities, business men and others interested in material pursuits spend little time in trying to acquaint themselves with the true facts involved in the issues of the day. Every citizen should devote some time each day to an honest search for the accurate news. That news is not necessarily found in editorials, editorial columns, or in the words of commentators. From these sources, one gets opinion, although quite often, news as well.

One should take advantage of these sources of opinion to become acquainted with the various viewpoints, but each citizen should form his own opinion concerning the issues of his time.

Therefore, every citizen of this community should make the effort to read some good books regularly, read the news columns of the newspaper, and, occasionally, glance at an atlas or some map which would acquaint him somewhat with the geography of the world. The search for the facts should not be confined to national or international issues, in which much misinformation is usually involved.
