Business To Continue Good—5,000,000 Cars And Trucks—Purchasing Power To Rise—Inflation Indicated?

Washington—The outlook now is for good business throughout the year and well into 1956. By the time you read this some automobile and truck manufacturers will have produced the 5,000,000th car or truck built in 1955. This stage of production was reached in October of last year.

Predictions for this year were for production of 5,500,000 cars and trucks, or possibly 6,000,000. It now appears certain that these figures will be reached and surpassed.

New cars, however, will probably be introduced much earlier this year than in recent years. Instead of November, December, and even January and February, the new models will probably hit the advertising pages in early fall this year.

With this probability, it might not be surprising if total new car and truck sales for the year lap at 7,000,000—or thereabouts—or even more by the end of the calendar year. Production would run higher than that, of course.

Record sales this year—and good business in other lines—is indicated by a combination of factors. First come the increases voted by Congress to millions of government workers and armed servicemen. This increase in pay is sure to be translated into more buying power.

Recent union-management contracts also provide huge pay raises (in total dollars) to labor. U. S. Steel workers, for example, are to get an added fifteen cents an hour. That increases earnings by over a dollar a day to the forty-hour workers. It gives him enough extra cash to buy another appliance, or even an automobile, on the installment plan.

Government workers and servicemen, too, are getting increases which enable them to buy more. Anything which doesn't cost much over $20 or $25 a month can be purchased by millions of Americans today on increases in pay they have received in recent months and weeks.

In time the price tags on many goods will have to be adjusted upward, because some of the materials and the cost of labor in producing these items, have gone up. If taxes are reduced next year on such large items as automobiles, then the increased manufacturer's price can probably be more than offset by lower taxes.

If taxes are not reduced, the administration is going to have a hard time holding down the cost of living—which has been so stable in recent months. In fact, the immediate threat to the economy looks to be one of threatened inflation, brought on by pay increases and the resulting increase in such items as steel.

The time to watch for price increases in automobiles is in fall announcements of new cars. Several new, very expensive models are almost ready to be announced right now.

The Lincoln division of the Ford Motor Company is about ready to bring out a model of the popular Continental—discouraged some years back to the dismay of Continental admirers. Cadillac will produce a jaw car that sells for as much, or more, than the Continental.

These cars, which are expected to sell above $7,000—according to reports, will consume any extra money that motorists feel heavy on their hands. Packard already has several expensive models, like the Caribbean, selling at such figures and Chrysler and Imperial get into this act also.

The whole expectation, then, in business circles is for another year of good business. The summer slump hasn't yet set in an appearance and many now think it will not be seen in 1955. Crops appear to be good, pay raises are a fact, and business continues to prosper with a lack of government interference.

That adds up to a bright future.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(Continued from Page Six) places individual responsibility and personal accountability before God. He who tries to live up to the Christian ideal of life tries his best to keep his life and conduct on the highest plane possible. Regardless of what the crowd does, he will do what he believes is right. We must shoulder the responsibility for our own conduct and use our influence to help guide others to do likewise.
