

SENATOR SAM ERVIN SAYS

Washington—I was happy to learn that Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson has promised to give first priority to farm legislation when the new Congress convenes in January.

Urgent
The farm problem is now paramount in national interest. There is urgent need for a solution to the problem. I am convinced that the Democrats will take the issue in stride if the administration fails to come up with a solution before the new session. Some people argue that matters of this nature should not become political issues. However, national policies cannot escape the political arena, because a democracy's strength depends on full and complete airing of public policy. Now we are on the brink of a great national debate to determine the government's policies with respect to a large segment of the population, the American farmer. Here in America we are blessed among nations in abundance of foods and fiber. Our problem is to deal with surpluses instead of shortages. There are compelling reasons why there can be no further recession permitted in the farm economy.

False Security
International tensions have relaxed. There is some progress being made in the complex situation. All of us are hopeful that our highest hopes for peace in the world can at last be realized. Russia's seemingly peaceful attitude must not lull us into a false security. I think it would be most unfortunate for us to let our guard down, and on the Armed Service Committee I intend to do all possible to help keep our defense strong.

No Change
I can see no change in Russia's basic beliefs. We must be hopeful at all times, working with a real zeal for peace, but I am fearful of the fruits of over-optimism and a let-down in our preparedness. Through strength we have brought the Communists to a realization that aggression against the free world will not succeed. I am not in favor of turning off the water just as the firemen are bringing the flames under control.

Highway Bill
Congress will pass a highway bill next year. It will take a lot of study to arrive at the proper solution to this knotty problem, but this is legislation that is in the "must" category. While I have no way of knowing the President's thinking on a compromise, I am convinced that the White House will accept some modified bill. It will be almost impossible for the President to get his bill and the cumbersome bond issue. There is too much opposition to this new proposal in financial policy.

County 4-H Clubs Organize For Year

The Perquimans 4-H Clubs have started another year with the opening of school this month. Already they are beginning to have conflicts in schedules. Ione timed her arrival on the day of the first planned 4-H meeting, and, of course, she had priority.

Three clubs at Hertford Grammar School held their first meeting on Wednesday morning, September 21. The time of these meetings was devoted entirely to enrollment and organization. Mrs. Florence Webb and Ralph Sasser talked to the boys and girls about projects for the year, gave out enrollment cards to be filled out and returned the following day and then each club elected officers for this year.

The following were elected: 5th Grade 4-H Club—President, Betsy Barbee; vice president, Verna Ann Perry; secretary, Sandra Thatch; song leader, Becky Felton; program chairman, Carolyn Rogerson, 6th Grade—President, Charlie Banks; vice president, Judy Winslow; secretary, Katherine White; song leaders, Barbara Divers and Tommy Cox; program chairman, Carolyn Stallings. 7th Grade—President, Carlyle Woodard; vice president, Julia Lane; secretary, Joyce Faye Owens; song leader, Mary Frances Baker; program chairman, Linda Bass.

On Monday, September 26th, the 8th Grade and High School clubs met jointly and filled out enrollment cards. A nominating committee composed of LaClair Winslow, Joe Rogerson and Wallace Baker was appointed to offer a slate of officers for election in the high school club in October.

The 8th grade which will be organized for the first time this year will elect officers at their first October meeting.

BETA CLUB INITIATION

On Friday, September 23, 1955, a large group of first graders invaded Perquimans High School. These twenty-six first graders had an average of 90 and were being initiated into the Beta Club. The girls wore short dresses, long curls, long socks and carried dolls, while the boys wore short pants, sailor hats, big bows and also carried toys. For the chapel program and at lunchtime they played several games such as London Bridge, Farmer in the Dell and Ring-Around-The-Roses.

Those initiated were: Ruth Aycock, Don Baker, Marjorie Byrum, William Byrum, C. B. Chappell, Mary Dow Chappell, Willie Mae
