

News Report From Washington

His Future Brighter—
May Run In 1956—
Harriman & Kefauver—
Adams & Nixon—

Washington—The President has passed the first stage of crisis following his heart attack and now chances are very good that he will make a complete recovery. This prospect, which materialized after Mr. Eisenhower survived a two-week period, after his initial attack, without setback, has some G.O.P. leaders hopeful he will run again.

The plan this group is working on is one in which Ike could be persuaded to head the ticket next year as a sort of nominal leader. He would be assured that most of the highly perplexing duties of the presidency would be taken off his shoulders during any second term.

In other words, Ike would have a group of close advisers who would do the detailed planning under his general direction and who would make the lesser decisions, carrying out his broad philosophy. If the President could delegate most of the heavy work load that goes with the office, he might be willing to continue as President, these Republican hopefuls suggest.

Whether this group will succeed in getting Mr. Eisenhower in the political campaign next year—as a candidate for re-election—is a good question, although the odds may be against them right now. When the time for a final choice comes, however, early next year, conditions may be different or the President may feel more hardy.

His followers can hope anyhow.

Meanwhile, over in the Democratic party, there is growing talk that Averell Harriman might be the man to head a stop Kefauver movement, if Adlai Stevenson takes himself out of the presidential nomination picture. Odds are that Adlai will not take himself out of the picture.

Even if the 1952 Democratic nominee is a candidate, Harriman might still be needed to stop Kefauver—in the opinion of some Democrats. They say Stevenson is no cinch to get the nomination again this year and that if and when his effort at Chicago fails, someone must be in position to head off Kefauver—lest the Tennessee grab the nomination of a popular surge of popularity at the convention.

Kefauver has always been popular with the delegates and with the voters. He is not popular with the political bosses in the Democratic party. Harriman may have the city leaders lined up pretty well by convention time—in the eastern metropolitan areas anyhow.

Although Harriman recently said he was supporting Stevenson, he more recently said he was "for Adlai" but would not necessarily support him at Chicago. Such a measure of backing is something of a record in the way of minimum support, it would seem.

But despite all the talk about Harriman and Kefauver at this stage of the game Adlai Stevenson remains the favorite and he will get a large bloc of Midwestern and Southern votes in the Chicago convention, and some from other sections, almost certainly, if he does not step aside next month when he announces his decision about running in 1956.

Because Vice President Richard Nixon is the most active Vice President the country has had for some time, the incapacitation of President Eisenhower has pushed the Vice into the national spotlight more than might have been expected.

The actual "acting President" of the country, Sherman Adams, is doing more of the President's former job than is Nixon, but Adams is an appointive officer and Nixon is an elected one.

Despite reports that all is harmony among the top Eisenhower advisers, Nixon and Adams have differing opinions. Yet they must necessarily work very closely together. Nixon presides at Cabinet meetings, and fulfills other official functions in the executive department as the number two man in that branch of the government.

But since Mr. Eisenhower is President, Adams' actions, taken in his behalf, are the official actions of the President, taking precedence over all else, including the Vice President's—if there were a conflict. There are those who see a delicate situation developing here—should the President suffer a relapse or remain confined for a long period.

Rodman To Speak At Welfare Meet

William H. Rodman, Jr., Attorney General of North Carolina, heads a list of speakers for the opening day of the 8th annual Public Welfare Institute to be held in Raleigh November 3-4. Leading persons in public welfare and related fields from this State and elsewhere in the nation will appear on the two-day program, according to an announcement today by Dr. Ellen Winston, commissioner of the State Board of Public Welfare which is sponsoring the meeting.

Stressing "Services To Children With Special Problems" as its theme, the conference will discuss such subjects as: Public Welfare Responsibility in the Prevention and Treatment of Juvenile Delinquency, Meeting the Problems of Emotionally Disturbed Children, Casework Services to Parents and Their Children During Periods of Illness, Challenges to Public Welfare Today, Public Welfare Meets the Challenge of Children with Special Problems, and other subjects.

Some 500 persons interested in public welfare services are expected to attend the sessions which are to be held in the Sir Walter Hotel. Among those attending will be: public welfare workers, members of the county boards of public welfare, county commissioners, clerks of Superior Courts, and others interested in welfare matters.

Several related organizations of superintendents of public welfare, caseworkers, and others will meet prior to the beginning of the institute proper and between sessions. The institute will begin with the morning session Thursday, November 3, and will end at noon Friday with a closing address by W. C. Reed, Thomasville, general superintendent of the Baptist Orphanage of North Carolina. Among other speakers, will be Wilbur J. Cohen of Washington, D. C., director of research and statistics at the Social Security Administration, U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Do You Remember

By J. P. PERRY

Here we are!

Pardon me, but this is mostly personal. . . Do you remember when it took a good part of a day to go as far as Elizabeth City, attend to a little business, and get home in time for supper? (dinner now) And it took nearly two days to go to Norfolk and return? Early last Saturday morning one of my sons, Jesse P. Jr., and his family (home on a visit) left here for their home in Mexico City, 3,000 miles and were home at 8 o'clock that night. The same day, my youngest son, Eugene and his family left Coronado, Calif., for Hawaii, a 2 year assignment for the Government (Air Force)—I suppose this is 6,000 miles or more and they are there by now. I hope. And again, last Saturday, William my oldest son, left here for Virginia Beach, a 2-hour drive. This changing world! And flying times! Can we older folks adjust ourselves to this day? We just as well try! There isn't much we can do about it. Only make the best use of each passing day, because today is our only opportunity to serve. Tomorrow

NORTH CAROLINA UNLIMITED
VALUE INCREASED BY MANUFACTURE CLIMBS IN STATE

Value added by manufacture in North Carolina in 1953 (the latest figures released) was $2,274,019,000! This total was up 12.9 per cent over 1952! North Carolina ranked 14th among the states in value added by manufacture in 1953—which is something to brag about in view of strong competition. Our State's constantly increasing industrial production means more and more employment for our citizens—an important contribution in helping to make North Carolina a better place in which to work, play and live.

Another contribution to more pleasant living for North Carolinians is the brewing industry's self-regulation program where brewers, wholesalers and retailers—in counties where malt beverages are permitted under State control—cooperate to maintain wholesome conditions for the legal sale of beer and ale.
