Business To Be Good—Nasser On Way Out? He To Run Hard—Democrats Cheered—

Washington—From every financial and business quarter the news for the business man is good. That does not mean that every segment of business is to prosper but it does mean that the total economy is expected to move ahead and that the gross national product and total profits will be higher in the next year than they have been in the past.

Of course, the trend upward is natural, since the country's population is ever increasing and therefore the demand for goods is increasing also. Added to this are the pay raises granted this year and one has a natural momentum for higher sales totals and larger profits.

The general idea among most economists is that business is certain to be good until June or July of 1957. The economists have been wrong before, and could be this time, but they agree, generally, that business is sure to be good for another nine months and that after this no bust is to follow.

These forecasts add impetus to the already-certain price spiral, affecting more and more consumer goods each day. That the cost of living is definitely headed up is no longer a prediction but a budgetary fact to most Americans. Just where the end is to the current plane of prosperity and high sales—is not apparent at this stage.

There are rumors floating around Europe that Egyptian ruler Gamel Nasser is on his way out. The reason is supposed to be discontent cropping up among merchants, industrialists and business men who now, find that normal commercial relations with the democracies are shattered beyond repair.

The impact of this rupture is just beginning to make itself felt. Moreover, when U. S. loans enable most British and French ships to bypass the Suez Canal, taking the long route below the southern tip of Africa, revenue from the canal will drop sharply and Nasser not only will be unable to finance a dam project but probably will find himself confronted with a desperate problem of balancing the canal's books, as between income and maintenance.

If the problem becomes acute, and the average Egyptian begins to feel the pinch, Nasser might be faced with a choice of starting a war against Israel or risking loss of power. That might again bring the Middle East to the brink of war.

The victories of Democratic candidates in several states recently have convinced the G.O.P. high command that a hard race must be run this fall. Not that these events were needed to spur President Eisenhower on. Already, before the Republican convention, Ike had made up his mind to run a hard race, despite his heart attack. The President will not take it easy to such an extent that his critics can make an issue of it. The President will do considerable traveling and he will make more speeches than he first planned to make, when he announced his decision to be the candidate again in March.

Moreover, the Eisenhower tone (and the Republican tone) in this year's campaign will not be the quiet, ultimate confidence of Thomas Dewey in 1948. It will be a mood of getting out and hustling votes in a race that is expected to be no pushover.

Naturally, the Democrats are cheered by recent elections, especially in Maine, and they are more than ever convinced that their

Halloween Apples-On-Sticks Please Trick Or Treat Gangs

By Nancy Carter

Apples, doughnuts, cider, funny faces and fancy costumes mean it's Halloween time. When the "trick or treat" gang rings the doorbell be ready with plenty of treats. If I know children, I know they'll be delighted with tart firm apples generously coated with red tinted syrup. And many oldsters will equally enjoy the fun of an apple-on-a-stick.

Bright red Delicious or Jonathan apples are in good supply in your supermarkets now. They're the apples so perfect for eating out of hand, to be served with a little wedge of cheese for dessert, for apple-fruit salads or for making into a confection like our picture.

We tested many recipes for coating apples. Our testers thought a few drops of red food color added to the syrup made the apples look prettier. We liked a little vanilla added to the syrup also for it enhances the apple flavor. That's an old French cooking trick and one well worth remembering.

Whether you have questions about party fare or everyday food, remember I am always glad to help. Just write to me: Nancy Carter, P. O. Box 4358, Atlanta, Ga. Here is my favorite Halloween recipe.

APPLES-ON-STICKS

6 red apples
6 wooden skewers
1 cup sugar
1 cup white corn syrup
½ cup water
Few drops red food color

Wash and dry apples; remove stems. Insert skewers in stem end. Combine sugar, corn syrup and water. Cook over medium heat until mixture boils, stirring constantly. Then cook without stirring to soft crack stage, (270 degrees on a candy thermometer), or until a small amount of the syrup separates into threads when tested in cold water. Remove from heat; add coloring and vanilla. Stir only enough to mix. To keep syrup from thickening, place over boiling water immediately. Hold each apple by skewer end and dip in syrup. Twist around so syrup spreads smoothly over apples. Remove quickly. Place on wire rack over waxed paper to cool. Makes 6 apples.

strategy—carrying the South and enough big key states and farm states—will put Adlai Stevenson in the White House in his second race against Ike.

The odds takers are still confident the Republican candidate will win. The odds have narrowed but you still have to put up more money to take Ike than to take Adlai.

The pollsters are now about ready to begin springing their canvass results, however, and this will have a definite affect on the odds—especially if the Eisenhower margin is very large.

mental." The Eighth Commandment forbids stealing. Taking anything of value without giving a fair equivalent is stealing, regardless of the legal technicalities which may justify it or protect it. The pistol is not always used in theft.

The Ninth Commandment refers primarily to giving false testimony in court—a commentary upon the morals of that ancient time, but is applicable today. "Never before in the world's history was lying so dangerous as now," says Rev. W. E. Geil. "The great liars of antiquity and even of the Dark Ages were able to circulate their lies in their own city, or at most, in a very limited territory, and that imperfectly, but now there is no end to the circulation of a lie, and accurately, too."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mr. Campbell:

The Perquimans Weekly, as a member of the North Carolina Press Association, is rendering signal service to its community and State in publishing the series of advertisements about our industrial development program.

I am happy to see the space donated by The Perquimans Weekly and other 161 members of the Press Association (with circulation over 1,250,000), as it helps our program greatly.

This is a fine public service by the Press, and is in keeping with its leadership not only for industrial development but toward improving our economic position in every respect. I predict these ads will create great popular interest.

Sincerely,

Luther H. Hodges

And helps us to forget,
But time so far has only proved,
How much we miss you,
And those who still remember,
Are the ones who loved you best.
