

KNOW YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

John T. Grooms, representative of the Social Security Administration, is in Herford the second Wednesday of each month at the Perquimans County Court House.

Are you losing social security benefits? Every year about this time the Social Security Administration runs a study called Loss of Benefit Survey. Through this survey, we found persons in this area who were losing social security benefits. You can probably number some of them among your friends and acquaintances. To prevent this loss of benefits, you should take stock of yourself right now, and keep this article on hand or in your personal papers.

There are four times in your lifetime when the Social Security Administration wants to see you, your wife or next of kin. By that we mean, we want you to come in and talk with us. These four times to contact the Social Security Administration are in the event of death, in the case of disability, when you reach retirement age (62 for women, 65 for men), or when you reach age 72 and are still working.

All types of benefits paid by the Social Security Administration are covered in these four events.

When one of these things occur, what should you do? You should get in touch with your social security office — bringing with you your social security number or that of the deceased.

Any time a person has a social security card and has worked on jobs included in social security, there is a possibility of benefits being payable. Do not trust your own opinion on possible social security benefits. Don't trust the opinion of friends and neighbors, no matter how well meaning they are. Come to the social security office where you will receive a positive and factual determination of your entitlement to social security benefits.

John Grooms, Field Representative, from the Norfolk Social Security office is in the Citizens Bank Building, Edenton, each Thursday at 10:30 A. M., and in the Courthouse, Herford, on the second Wednesday of each month to assist people in filing claims for Social Security and to discuss any Social Security matter.

$9,600 In Scholarships Offered 4-H Members

Scholarships worth $9,600 await 4-H Club members who are pursuing certain college courses. Two home economics scholarships of $800 each, four at $1,000 each, and two at $800 each in agronomy and related subjects having to do with crop protection and production will be awarded to successful applicants this fall.

The eight scholarships are part of a national 4-H scholarship fund administered by the National 4-H Service Committee, Chicago, in cooperation with the Extension Service and land-grant colleges and universities. Funds come from industrial concerns that have supported the 4-H educational program for some time.

The home economics scholarships are given annually by Sunbeam Corporation, Chicago, to girls in their junior or senior college year.

The California Spray-Chemical Corporation of Richmond provides scholarships to junior or senior students majoring or minoring in agronomy, soils, entomology, plant pathology and vegetable or fruit horticulture.

Sharp differences also are found between the two groups in relation to unemployment. Crane stated. Dropouts suffer three times the amount of unemployment experienced by graduates.

"These facts should convince all young people of the advisability of finishing high school before going to work permanently," Crane said.
