

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

A belief in divine providence is supported by knowledge that no man or nation can oppose God with impunity. Either may strut for a time and flourish mightily, as the Hittites and Moabites of the world. But before long they and all their works are brought to naught. They do not break the laws of God; they merely illustrate them. Life works only one way—God's way. We are free to disobey, but our disobedience brings us to ruin. God's role may be likened to that of a good parent. To make possible our growth toward maturity, He must not take the stones from our path. He is required to permit freedom in which we may stumble and harm ourselves, and others. But when we must suffer, He is present in our need, sharing our pain and helping us to bring good out of evil. Yes, belief in divine providence brings many benefits; it gives tenacity of purpose in the service of spiritual values, regardless of the opposition of error and evil. It makes us quiet and free. Belief in divine providence gives perspective that delivers us from tension and panic under the pressures of the moment. And it makes for courage in the midst of adversity and disaster. We could not survive without it!

Ownership of U. S. Savings Bonds, the spectacular thrift performer of the Forties, ran counter to the trend in the last decade. Redemption value of Savings Bonds owned by individuals came to $45.8 billion at the end of 1959 as against $49.6 billion in 1950, with substantial gains in the ownership of the E and H bonds being more than offset by liquidation of other series. There are no recent figures for the number of Savings Bonds owners beyond the 40 million estimate some years ago. Postal Savings continued its long-term downward trend in both ownership and savings totals. In the area of pension and retirement funds, the number of workers covered under private insured and noninsured plans combined was estimated at 20 million in 1959 as against 9.8 million in 1950 and only 4.1 million in 1940. Reserves accumulated behind noninsured plans on these dates were an estimated $26.8 billion versus $6.1 billion and $1.4 billion (figures for insured plans are included in life insurance reserves.) The number of workers covered under Government-sponsored retirement programs other than OASDI—Railroad, Federal Civilian, and State and Local Employees—added up to an estimated 7 1/2 million at the end of 1959 as against 6 million in 1950 and 3.3 million in 1940. Combined reserves behind these plans were placed at over $30 billion in 1959 versus $19 billion in 1950 and $2.3 billion in 1940.

Number Of Savers At Record High, Outstripping Population In Growth

The number of savers in the United States has increased by millions a year over the last decade, outstripping the population in rate of growth and bringing the distribution in ownership of savings and family protection programs to the highest level on record.

The thrift pace-maker has been life insurance. With 115 million policyholders in legal reserve companies, up close to a third over 1950 and now representing practically two out of every three persons in the entire population, life insurance is far out in front as the nation's leading median of individual thrift and personal and family protection.

Voluntary Accomplishment
Big numerical and proportional gains have likewise been shown in the ownership of other forms of saving. Particularly noteworthy from the long view has been the rapid growth in the number of persons enrolled under private pension and retirement programs, insured and non-insured combined. Together these plans now cover about half of all civilian nonfarm workers as against a proportion of about a third a decade ago.

Basic in this mass thrift picture is that the majority of American families have more than one form of savings. Millions, too, have other large financial resources such as increasing equities in homes and ownership of corporate and other securities. Thus the record growth in the number of savers and investors, as well as in their accumulated backlogs, in recent years, is a tribute to the ingrained thrift habit of the American people and to their efforts to provide for themselves and their dependents on their own.

Nematode Program Brings Good Return

Raleigh — One hundred dollars for one hour's work! That's the return you may realize from a new nematode control program developed by disease control specialists at N. C. State College. It's a long-range program planned according to the severity of the nematode problem in each field planted in tobacco, according to tobacco disease specialist Farney Todd.

Main ingredient of the new program is "reading the roots" or measuring the degree of nematode infestation. Then, through the use of a "root-knot index" the long range program is developed. But to be effective the program must be put into effect within a few days after the final tobacco leaves are removed from the stalks, Todd emphasizes.

The specialist says about one man hour of labor is required for reading the roots on each acre. A sample system is used whereby about one of each 300 roots is inspected. Research has shown that by a severe infestation a good control program can increase returns by as much as $300 per acre. If the infestation is light and the soil is fumigated where it is not needed, the grower can decrease his net returns by as much as $50 to $100 an acre. Thus, the conservative figure of $100 per acre for the investment of one hour's time.

About half the growers are using fumigants, Todd says. "While many growers used the fumigants, others are using other methods."

In the next 60 seconds Americans will earn $2,083 with U.S. Savings Bonds
The new interest rate makes it more worth while than ever to buy Bonds and hold on to them

Millions of Americans now own U.S. Savings Bonds worth more than 42.5 billion dollars. And every minute of the day, these Bonds earn $2,083 in interest. With as little as 63¢ a day you, too, can start saving this profitable way. Because 63¢ a day will buy a $25 Savings Bond every month. If you buy one a month for the next 40 months, you'll own a stack of Bonds worth $1,000 at maturity. And that $1,000 will have cost you only $750—in easy installments. Remember—under the new 3 1/2% interest rate, Savings Bonds turn $18.75 into $25 fourteen months faster than ever before.

You can get your money, with interest, any time you want it. Bonds are a ready reserve that you can cash any time at any bank. But it pays to keep them. Your money is guaranteed by the U.S. Government. Bonds are an absolutely riskless investment. The Government promises you that the cash value of your Bond will not drop—it can only grow. Your money can't be lost or stolen. The Treasury will replace your Bonds, free, if anything happens to them. You save more than money. You help save the peace with every Bond you buy. Peace costs money—money for science, education, military strength. And the money you save helps keep our nation's economy strong.

SOME ADVANTAGES YOU MIGHT THINK ABOUT
You can save automatically with the Payroll Savings Plan. Tell your company how much to set aside from your pay for Bonds. This way you won't forget to save and your savings will add up automatically. You now get 3 1/2% interest, at maturity. This new rate, which went into effect June 1, 1959, makes your Bond money grow faster. Series E Bonds now mature 14 months earlier than before—in just 7 years, 9 months. Bonds bought before June 1, 1959, earn more, too—an extra 1/2% from then to maturity.

Here's how you can reach your savings goal with U.S. Savings Bonds in just 7 years, 9 months

If you want about	$2,500	$5,000	$10,000
each week save	$5.45	$10.85	$21.70

You save more than money with U.S. Savings Bonds
