

Photo Exhibits At Union School

From the thousands of entries submitted in the Kodak High School Photo Awards, the Union School is proud to exhibit the group of top-winning photographs which represent the finest work of our young photographers across the country.

Though viewed only as a hobby by most of the winners their photographic skill will doubtless provide great profit to them in the years to come, both in pleasure and as a means of self-expression in this busy world.

The 17th annual exhibit is displayed in several of the high school rooms at the Union School.

The traveling salon, which is sponsored by the Eastman Kodak Company, was brought to the school through the courtesy of Miss A. M. Hoffer, librarian. The photos are scheduled for a European display.

The exhibit may be seen daily from 9:30 A. M. to 2:30 P. M.

First 4-H'er With All Three 4-H Outfits

Missouri Ann Bateman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bateman of Beata 3, Hertford, is the first 4-H'er with all three official 4-H outfits. She is shown proudly modeling the outfits. The new uniform is in the form of separates. The official version is the blouse with roll-up sleeves and a convertible collar. The dress-up version features a collarless neckline with roll-up sleeves. The summer version is sleeveless.

The Confederate Soldier in the Civil War, written by the Civil War Leaders, themselves covers all phases and many personalities of the war. It is one of the most impressive books to come into the library recently, and is given in memory of David Cox III, 1874-1946.

Other new books this week are Divorce and You by Winter; Ghosts of the Carolinas, by Roberts (this is a Home Demonstration Club list book); The Town, by Faulkner; The Mansion, also by Faulkner; The Amazing Mrs. Bonaparte, by Harnett Kate; Sunken History, Underwater Archaeology, by Silverberg; and the March issue of Horizon.

New fiction titles, in addition to the Faulkner novels are: The Glass Blowers, by DuMaurier; Mrs. Matland's Affair, by Lynn; Everybody Loves Cara, by Head; Buyer of Dreams, by Judson; and The Rose Window, by Lloyd.
