

Area Agribusinessmen Tour Commercial Swine Farms In Five Counties

Agribusinessmen from the 10-county Albemarle area toured five counties last week to get a first-hand look at the commercial swine enterprise. The tour took in Perquimans, Chowan, Camden, Pasquotank and Currituck Counties and was under the auspices of the Albemarle Area Development Association's Agriculture Committee.

Beginning the early part of the year, the AADA made several agricultural surveys, citing the present situation, the needs and immediate and future plans of action. Subsequent tours, with one on Thursday to check on the soybean production at the Tidewater Research Station near Plymouth, are part of the AADA's suggestions on improving the general agriculture picture in the area.

Points advanced by the surveys on hogs include benefits from using available corn for feeding the existing swine, set at 13,700 sows. There are about 120,000 ears of corn produced in the Albemarle with approximately 75 per cent of the corn shipped out.

The AADA pointed out that hog production could be tripled without having to import additional corn. Farmers were advised that they could make better use of available labor and resources by adding a swing production enterprise, either farrowing and finishing or starting with feeder pigs.

One immediate goal in hog production is to acquire a full-time swine specialist and it was also suggested by the AADA that a feeder pig sale could be organized promoting at least an average of eight pigs per litter. Other ideas included breeding through best sows to at least 60 per cent of the corn produced in the area, narrow to at least eight sows at one time and generally improve the general level of management. Local groups in each county are working on implementing these suggestions.

About 150 Ford dealers from the Richmond sales district of Ford Division—among them 64 from the eastern half of North Carolina—and their wives will travel to New York City next week to meet with executives of Ford Motor Company and preview the entire line of 1965 Ford Division products.

C. G. Winslow of the Winslow-Blanchard Motor Company will attend. H. D. In addition to previewing the vehicles at the New York Coliseum and learning of Ford Division's 1965 marketing plans, the dealers and their wives will be given a special tour of Ford's World's Fair Pavilion.

"In recent years, Ford has led the industry in developing new products that are designed to meet the demands of a sophisticated, changing market. Along with these new products—typified by the Mustang—it has provided its dealers with complete and comprehensive marketing programs," Mr. Richardson stated. "This New York meeting has been planned to provide our dealers with future marketing plans sufficiently far in advance so they may prepare for public introduction of our 1965 line." he added.

Thirteen 4-H Girls At Cooking School Held Last Week

Adventures in the kitchen began for thirteen 4-H girls last week when they attended the "cooking school" held by Mrs. Paige L. Underwood, Associate Home Economics Agent, at the Perquimans County Agricultural Building.

The auditorium of the building was transformed into a cooking laboratory by the modern gas ranges loaned by Harrell Gas & Coal Company and the General Electric Range loaned by Hertford Motor Company. The 4-H'ers and Mrs. Underwood expressed their appreciation for the use of these appliances.

The session began with a brief introduction of the 4-H Foods and Nutrition Project Book. The basic Four Food Groups were discussed and cards were written to W. B. Austin, Jr., requesting a free bulletin "Foods For The Body".

A complete luncheon menu was prepared: Barbecued franks, cole slaw, deviled eggs, enriched corn meal muffins, fruit pudding, sugar cookies, chocolate milk shake. The girls drew for their recipe and found all equipment assembled in which they measured and mixed their recipes.

Barbecued franks were prepared by Carole Eure. Cole slaw by Gail Watson, Virginia Harrell and June Harrell prepared the deviled eggs. Enriched corn meal muffins were made by Sybil Jean Bateman and Maureen Nixon. Martha White and Karen Watson made the Fruit pudding which consisted of Vanilla Pudding Mix cooked with syrup of fruit cocktail and then the drained fruit cocktail added. Missouri Ann Bateman, Annette Cartwright and Eden Eure made Dropped Sugar Cookies and decorated them with green and yellow tinted sugar. The Cherokee Milk Shakes were made by Deborah Long and Martha White. This recipe required the girls to make their own chocolate syrup and add milk and ice cream to complete the shake.

Table setting was another adventure which the girls experienced. Place mats and decorated name cards marked the place for each 4-H'er and guest to sit. Name cards were made by Eden Eure, Annette Cartwright, and Sybil Jean Bateman. The 4-H Club Pledge was said and blessing given prior to the meal which was served buffet style.

Miss Frances Newby, Perquimans County High School Home Economics Teacher, was a special guest. Other guests were Miss Beth Hurdle, Mrs. Ned Nixon and Mrs. Kenneth Bateman, 4-H leaders who assisted Mrs. Underwood with the Cooking School. Also, Mrs. Ray Harris, Mrs. Willard Copeland and Mrs. Fannie Hurdle were invited guests.

Of course, the clean-up adventure was not neglected and all girls assisted in washing dishes and cleaning all areas.

Mrs. Underwood states that all recipes were very successful, since the girls used correct measurements made with standard measuring cups and spoons. She also states that 4-H'ers learn the most when they actually "do" what a project requires. "This cooking school, was most worthwhile because it gave the girls the feel of working in a kitchen and being on their own with supervision when needed." It was fun and the food was good, reported most of the girls. We wish all girls enrolled in Foods and Nutrition could have been present and taken advantage of the Cooking School.

Sunbury Family Narrowly Miss Watery Grave

Cecil Beasley, Jr., of Sunbury did a fancy piece of trick driving here Sunday night, when with his wife and six children, driving an old model car, went off the end of Grubb Street onto the old rotten Hertford municipal pier located beside the Jessup fishing pier and traveled to almost the end of the dangerous ramp which is not more than eight feet wide.

Beasley traveled almost to the end of the pier with a flat tire before the front left side of the car ran off the edge and came to a stop with the car leaning dangerously over the water.

Hertford police were called and the man told the officers that he had a flat tire and had been riding around town trying to find a place to change the tire and every place that he started to stop had a "No Parking" sign until he reached the end of Grubb Street and hopped the old car up about a foot of the ramp to the pier for the ride which could have ended in a watery grave for the man and his family.

Beasley was arrested for reckless driving.
