SENATOR SAM ERVIN SAYS

WASHINGTON — Congress moves toward the ninth month of this session with a large backlog of legislative proposals still awaiting action. The Congressional agenda is so lengthy that there is little talk of adjournment even though October in recent years has been the usual completion target.

The major problem to be resolved is the financial one. The gap between proposed spending programs and anticipated revenues has become so great that there are genuine fears about Treasury finances. The basic question is whether there will be enough appropriations cuts to avoid serious fiscal trouble. The Administration is urging Congress to enact a ten per cent surtax on individual and corporate incomes, and to complete action on the ten regular appropriation bills now pending in the House and Senate. Congress wants Administration support in reducing spending before it takes up the tax bill.

As almost everyone knows, there is little public support of a tax increase, and particularly so at a time when domestic spending programs are rising rapidly. Still the Administration has shown little inclination to cut and trim the budget it has presented, and there the matter rests.

The Senate began debate last week on the $5 billion anti-poverty authorization bill. The program has been criticized on many counts for some time and the fight in the Senate and House over this bill is expected to be a long one.

The omnibus "Civil Rights Act of 1967" is undergoing hearings by the Constitutional Rights Subcommittee which I chair. The proposals for this year's "rights" package include the unpopular open housing provision. One of the problems in conducting hearing on this year's bill has been that earlier scheduled hearings were cancelled because of Senate floor debates.

The anti-crime measures are yet to be acted on by Congress. Key measures range from a constitutional amendment on this subject, which I have proposed to permit the use of voluntary confessions in court trials, to the proposed Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice Act of 1967. The latter measure would help states and cities and towns improve their methods of local law enforcement through Federal grants.

Two educational bills are yet to be acted on by the Senate. The elementary and secondary education bill passed the House on May 24th. The higher education bill has yet to be acted on by the House and the Senate.

The Senate Finance Committee is now considering the House-passed social security amendments, including a 12.5 per cent increase in pension benefits. As approved by the House, the measure would also tighten the public welfare programs which disperse funds to dependent children.

These measures and many others await Congressional action in the time remaining before adjournment.

The Old Mayan empire (Indian) flourished in what is today Guatemala during the first 1,000 years of the Christian era.

The Aviation Hall of Fame in Dayton, Ohio, is dedicated to honoring aviation's outstanding pioneers.

The first historic site to be established by any state was George Washington's headquarters at Newburgh, N.Y. It was a farmhouse from which he directed troops during the final 16 months of the Revolution.

Michigan is split into two parts. The northern peninsula is mining and timber country while the southern part is the agricultural and manufacturing country.

than $3,000. It is paid to the surviving spouse, child or children unless the serviceman has designated his parents, brothers or sisters.

Q — I have remarried and my present husband has adopted my daughter. Thus she is not an orphan. Since her father died from injuries sustained in World War II, is she entitled to training under the War Orphans Assistance program?

A — Yes. Her eligibility is based on the fact that her parent died from service-connected causes. Subsequent adoption does not affect this original eligibility.

Q — I am receiving a pension as a widow of a veteran, and for our two children. I am considering marrying again and I would like to know if this would result in the loss of this pension?

A — Only that portion that is payable as your benefit would be stopped. Benefits would continue to be paid to you on behalf of your children. Children do not lose their rights to pension when the widow remarries or dies. They will continue to receive pension until age 18 or attending a VA-approved school, until age 23.
