Drs. McCollum and Mathews Deliver Paper in Switzerland

Dr. Robert S. Mathews, formerly of Hertford, N. C. and an Assistant Resident in Orthopaedic Surgery at the Duke University Medical Center, addressed the June meeting of the Heberden Society of the National Institute of Rehabilitation of Switzerland at Burgenstock, Switzerland.

O'Neil, began their investigations at Duke University where all three began their orthopaedic residencies. They investigated gout, a disease characterized by inflammation of the joints, with deposits of urates in and around the joints, and hyperuricemia, excessive amounts of uric acid in the blood, as possible causes of the femoral disease.

The importance of these findings lies in the development of new surgical techniques and medical treatments for patients with idiopathic aseptic necrosis of the femoral head. They are working to find ways to stem gout, as well as the gouty effects of alcoholism, in these patients.

Dr. Matthews is in Greenville, South Carolina for a year's work in orthopaedic surgery at Green-General Hospital and Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children. Dr. Matthews is the son of Mrs. Fred T. Matthews of Hertford, N. C. and is married to the former Barbara Sawyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Muldrow Sawyer of 612 W. Colonial Avenue, Elizabeth City, N. C.

Get Full Potential Yield of Soybeans

"If you have a field of soybeans or peanuts that have yellow spots in them, a little care can probably change these to where you will realize the full potential yield that you would expect," according to R. M. Thompson, County Extension Chairman.

The way to tell if this is your problem is to look at the leaf and if the leaf is yellow and the ribs in the leaf are dark green, you can be pretty well assured that it is lack of manganese.

Captain Wills With USAF Satellite Communications

Captain Lewellyn S. Wills, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob W. Wills, Rt. 3, Hertford, N. C., is a member of the U. S. Air Force team that is providing satellite communications between the United States and Southeast Asia.

He and his team were responsible for the development and procurement of the eight satellites recently launched from Cape Kennedy, Fla., to replenish the 17 already in orbit in the Department of Defense (DOD) Initial Defense Satellite Communications System.

Hurled more than 20,000 miles into space by a Titan booster, the satellites greatly increase the reliability of military communications systems in Southeast Asia. Capable of linking two ground points 10,000 miles apart, each satellite is designed for an in-orbit lifetime of one and half to two years.

The captain is assigned to the project and works at the nerve center of all Air Force space activities as a member of the Air Force Systems Command's Space and Missile Systems Organization. The organization is the primary DOD agency for development of present and future space and ballistic missile systems.

Fisherman Makes Record Catch

Eugene Boyce, local fishing fan, is being weighed in at Dick's Drive-In, where he launched his boat, with a 15 1/2 lb. Rockfish he caught in the Perquimans River last week. His daughter, Dawn, and son, Chris, look on approvingly.

Dawn was with her father when he caught the fish and was very helpful in getting the stubborn fellow into his boat. This Rockfish is the largest ever caught in the area. Hayward Divers held the record prior to Boyce's catch with one weighing some over 14 lbs. Boyce is quite a fishing enthusiast with a number of trophies to prove it. He has participated in all of the local Fish Rodeos for several years, and always goes home with honors. It sounds like "Our Own Perquimans River" is the best place to go fishing, so come on, get out your fishing equipment and try your luck.
