Hertford and Creswell Wrecks Kill Drivers

The driver of a moving van was burned to death in a two-truck accident in front of the ABC whisky store on the US 17 by-pass at Hertford Tuesday afternoon. The driver of the other truck escaped injury.

A Creswell man was killed in a truck-car crash near Creswell earlier in the day.

Killed in the Perquimans crash was John Milton Horne, 35, of Westminister, Calif. He was a native of North Carolina whose parents live in Portsmouth.

The driver of the truck, Roscoe E. Mason, 38, of Bath, an oil tanker, described the accident.

"I had just slowed down for a state truck to make a turn off the highway and just as I started up again I felt my truck hit in the rear."

"When he looked in the rear-view mirror he saw the cab of the furniture truck in flames. The rear of his truck was also burning.

"I pulled by truck to the side of the road and ran across a field. I was afraid it might blow up," Mason said.

Highway Patrolman Y. Z. Newberry said Horne was probably killed instantly when the fire engulfed the cab of his truck. The dead man's hands were still clutching the steering wheel when the fire was put out. His charred watch showed the time of the crash — 2:35 p.m.

Traffic was tied up on the by-pass for nearly two hours as firemen from Hertford and Elizabeth City tried to put out the blaze in the rear of the van. It was loaded with the furniture of a Navy family from Norfolk. Little was saved.

Highway engineers were called in to examine the highway which was badly burned for about 100 yards. The fire in the oil tanker was confined to the rear of the tank.

In addition to his parents, Mrs. Eva Gray Estep and Louis Milton Horne of Portsmouth, Horne is survived by his widow, Mrs. Martha Gale Horne; two daughters, Eva Belle Horne and Lorie Ann Horne; one son, John Milton Horne, all of California; three brothers, Jimmy Lee Horne of St. Pauls, Samay Earl Horne of the U. S. Navy in the Philippines and Richard L. Horne of Portsmouth; one step-sister, Dorothy Ann Estep of Portsmouth; and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Doshie Holder of Fayetteville.

The body will remain at Swindell Funeral Home in Hertford pending completion of arrangements.

The Creswell man killed in the head-on car-truck collision 2-1/2 miles west of Creswell on US 64 Tuesday at 9 a.m. was William Jennings Davenport, 41. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Chowan Hospital in Edenton.

Highway Patrolman Wilbur Sessoms said Davenport passed a car driven by Marshall Woodley of Creswell as it was making a right turn off the highway and ran head-on into a truck driven by John Gosser, 19, of Rt. 1, Edenton. Gosser was treated at the Edenton hospital but not admitted.

Davenport was the son of the Drive With Care During Holiday

If your temper pops like a firecracker this Fourth of July, take care that it doesn't steer you into one of the 1,300 traffic accidents which the N.C. State Motor Club warns may take at least 30 lives and injure 300 others on North Carolina's streets and highways during the long holiday.

The state will take a long look on its Independence Day from 6 p.m. Wednesday, July 3, through midnight Sunday, July 7, a period of 108 hours. Last year a similar July Fourth period resulted in 25 killed and 813 injured in 1,474 accidents. The most recent holiday Memorial Day this year — cost 28 lives in a 108-hour period.

Leading driver violations reported last July Fourth were speeding, 295; driving left of center, 191; failure to yield right of way, 141; and following too closely, 127. Thirty-one of the 28 fatalities occurred on Tuesday, July 4.

Thomas A. Watkins, motor club president, reminded motorists that traffic cops will be on duty on July Fourth and Sunday. He said the state will have a road check program on the highway system.

late William A. and Mrs. Eva A. Davenport and the husband of Mrs. Dorothy Mann Davenport.

Besides his widow, he is survived by three sons, William J. Davenport Jr., Gustin W. Davenport and Marshall L. Davenport of Creswell; five daughters, Mrs. Glenda D. Rose of Suffolk, Misses Dorothy E. Davenport, Melody L. Davenport, Jean C. Davenport and Kimberly D. Davenport.

port of the home; one brother, Marvin A. Davenport of Creswell; a sister, Mrs. Francis D. Comstock of Creswell and two grandchildren.

A funeral service will be held Thursday at 3 p.m. at Mt. Hermon Methodist Church Methodist Church by the Rev. Henry Hunnings, pastor, and the Rev. Roy Scarum. Burial will be in the family cemetery with Walker Funeral Home in charge.

Highway Patrol Seeking Applicants For School

The North Carolina State Highway Patrol is seeking applicants for a basic training school which will begin September 8th at the University of North Carolina's Institute of Government at Chapel Hill.

Major E. W. Jones, who heads the Patrol's Training and Inspection Division, says there are openings for 40 men in the 14 weeks of school.

"The basic school," said Major Jones, "includes a comprehensive survey of all areas of traffic control and law enforcement. The instruction is by experts in each field and cover a myriad of topics from pursuit driving to public relations."

On July 1, the Patrol's authorized strength will increase by 60 men to 877. The increase in personnel was approved by the 1967 General Assembly. The legislators provided for 75 men the first year of the biennium and 50 the second.

In order to qualify for employment by the Patrol, a young man must be between 21-30 years of age, a U. S. citizen with a high school diploma, 5 feet 9-1/2 inches tall, 160 pounds and be able to pass a rigid physical and mental examinations.

"We have modified one of the physical requirements," Mayor Jones said, "It is now possible for a young man with 20-40 vision to join the Patrol. Of course, this deficiency must be corrective to 20-20 with glasses or contact lens."

The Patrol officer said interested applicants can get additional information by contacting the local district first Sergeant or by writing directly to Patrol Headquarters, Motor Vehicles Building, Raleigh, N. C.

Seaboard Medical Association Has Three Day Convention

June 19-23, 1968 are the dates set for the 74th Convention of the SEABOARD MEDICAL ASSOCIATION. Making the announcement is Robert G. Gahagan, M.D., of Norfolk, Virginia newly elected President of the two-state physician group.

Other officers elected to serve 1968-69 Seaboard Medical Association at the Annual Convention held at Nags Head last week-end were: Henry L. Stephenson, M.D., Washington; 2nd vice-president, James L. Thompson, M.D., Norfolk; 3rd vice-president, Samuel G. Jenkins, M.D., Elizabeth City; and 4th vice-president, Charles Rawls, M.D., of Suffolk.

B. Voss Neal, M.D., of Newport News continues his term of three years as Secretary-Treasurer of the 500 member group. The new officers were installed last Saturday night at the President's Dinner.

T. P. Brinn, M. D. of Hertford presided over the three-day Convention. Robert A. Ross, M.D. of Chapel Hill, N.C. was the guest dinner speaker on Saturday night. His topic, "The Role of the Regional Medical Societies Today," gave emphasis to the fine exchange of scientific and fellowship provided by such group meetings as the Seaboard Medical Association. Its value reaches far beyond the more formal and "Impersonal" large audiences found in state and national associations.

The 73-year old medical group the oldest of its kind along the Atlantic Seacoast, agreed some ten years ago to hold its Annual Convention at the Hotel Carolinian at Nags Head. In recognition of its "permanent" Convention site, Past-Presidents plaques were presented to the ten presidents serving the Association during this period of time. They were: L. Everett Sawyer, M.D. of Elizabeth City, N. C.; William H. Romm, M.D. of Moyock, N.C.; Charles E. Horton, M.D. Norfolk; David T. Tayloe, M.D. Washington, N.C.; John L. McCain, M.D. of Wilson; Clarke Rodman, M. D. Washington, N. C.; Walter P. Adams, M.D. Norfolk.

The THEME of the 1968 CONVENTION was: MAD MOD MED WORLD—with the costume party held on Friday night. Prize-winning couple, judged by a committee, was Dr. and Mrs. T.P. Brinn of Hertford. Their hand-painted, psychedelic - attire actually glowed in the "black" lights which help create the MOD-Atmosphere of the hotel Ball Room.

Some 250 members, exhibitors, wives and guests were present for Saturday night's President Dinner and Ball. Ray Kipper and his Band from Norfolk played Saturday night and Dick Jordan and his Combo entertained the Convention group on Friday night.
