For Your Information

Dear Friends,

It is natural that simple faith in time of bereavement, be reinforced by religious ceremony, and also by social ceremony. Physical aspects, such as casket and vaults, provided they are prudently selected by the bereaved and are honest expressions of sentiment. are helpful symbols to carry the bereaved family through the trying days of grief.

Otving our faith to God is like pushing over that irst demine. It starts a chain reaction—and that re-wits in a richer life, greater happiness and a deeper antidance in ourselves and in the future. Why not some to church this Sunday Let God start a chain reaction in your life

OF THE P International Sunday School Leason for July 20, 1969 MEMORY SELECTION: "Now we, brethren, as lease was, are the children of promise." — (Calatians 4:88).

LESSON TEXT; Generic 25; 1-5; 25;10-22; 32;23-33; 35;1-15; 37;23-25; 45;1-15; 46;1-7.

Our Lesson today points up the fact that God's purposes are stronger than either human weaknesses or mere circumstances, for—oucesgain—we see Him choosing a leader for His people from among those who were far from perfect. And (in retrospect) how many times, by the Holy choice, either that of Futher or Son, have those sho were prideful, lustful, power-oriented, or non-believers, served His purposes throughout the history of Christianity? Shruly, herein; lies a ray of hope for us all! For God, . As was Jesus throughout His ministry, . .was ever concerned for those who needed Him the moet!

Thus we study today — primarily — the story of Jacob. To follow Abroham and Isaac, Jacob certainly seemed to be a fac-defield choice, for head revealed his craftiness in his deatings with his brother Essu. Primarily interested in controlling the possessions of his father, Jacob was not above persuading his brother to sell his brithright for a "nees of pottage." His motivation, however, served God's purpose, was the followed the control of the propose, was the followed the control of the propose.

controlling the possessions of his father, Jacob was not above persuading his brother to sell his birthright for a "meas of pottage." His motivation, however, served God's purpose, even if God could not approve of the means he (Jacob) amployed to accomplish it. For Jacob atmostly desired to be the leader of God's chosen people. And surely God preferred that Jacob (the "quiet coe") serve His purpose rether than the worldly Heast (And how other, in hits, does what seems to be a tragedy — a first — turn into a trump? What seems to be a disaster, turn outlobe a blessing?), So often, the head of God is at work in our Hves, if we will but have the patience and the windom — and the faith — to accept it God had made a covensia with Abraham, with Jacob He reasoned that covensia. Now militarly the estings. ... he arrentield of atones. ... se how much more impressive! No worder Jacob arcuse from his useany sleem and declared; "currely the Lord is in this place, and I have it not?" (Gos. Shife). How often do we encounter God, and how often are we made source of His concern for us, in unlikely spots and unlikely shutique in our lives? Jacob had his set-backs, and through them he grew in spiritual and moral stature. He oven was troubled by his conceines at the sup he had treated had his set-backs, and through them he grew in spiritual and moral stature. He oven was troubled by the conceines at the sup he had treated had his set-backs, and through them he grew in spiritual and moral stature. In a do we all, my then God appeared to Jacob at a fatelest, and through them he graw in male; the malest of completes sitted her had conceined all the malest, of completes sitted to his outries home from three, and the conceines are such consistent with the malest of completes sitted her with a said, the questions — he quitheline— just complete surrander!

In studying the story of Jacob, we cannot help bet restliss that amplitud it was made! A such a said remained to conceine the said had be settly of His for the said. How the parties of
