> McGeachy said he expects both houses of the General Assembly to give endorsement to the bond issue later this month. His optimism is grounded in the fact that more than 40 members of the upper chamber were listed as sponsors when the measure was introduced in the Senate.

> Expecting speedy approval of his bill, McGeachy his beady begun putting together a blueribbon committee to generate support for the bond referendum, and he has unveiled plans to name county chairman to campaign for passage of the bond election.

McGeachy began prompting the idea of a state-wide bond issue early this year as a means of attracting a larger share of federal funds to meet the state's water and sewerage needs. He said that North Carolina faces a health crisis if steps are not taken to secure additional funds for water and sewerage

The complaint against Mrs. oveless was filed following the June 2 stabbing death of her 47rear-old husband. Henry Paul of the house to move her car. Loveless.
Judge Wilton Walker ordered

Perquimans County Superior Court in November. She is free under $5.000 bond pending trial.

Mrs. Loveless testified that the stabbing was an accident.

During the 20 minutes she was on the stand, she said that after an argument between the two, her husband left one of the several business establishments managed by the couple in a beach resort area and returned to their home.

The defendant said her husband broke open a door to the house in anger. She testified that she had followed him to the house and "fussed at him and tried to fix the door lock, using a serrated bread knife."

Sheriff Julian Broughton said an examination of the door that Mrs. Loveless said she was
