Cosmetologists Meet

A group of Cosmetologists in this northeastern corner of North Carolina felt a need to be affiliated with the professional organization statewide and national, as trends and styles are designed by the national artists coordinating with fashion designers. This group, realizing the only way to become a member was through a local affiliate took steps to organize in this area. This became a reality when Mrs. Clara Griggs, President of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologist Association of North Carolina, Inc. and Mrs. Charlotte Abbott, second vice president, joined the interested group at the Elizabeth City Golf Club.

Mr. Roger Jenkins, North Carolina Hair Fashion Committee Styles Chairman was guest artist for the evening presenting beautiful hair styles in the current trend, thus giving convincing evidence of the advantages of belonging.

The memberships of "The Albemarle Affiliate No. 53" elected the following slate of officers: Thomas Phelps, President; Alice Jean Stillson, Vice-President; Faye Hoffman, Secretary; Ruth Baker; Treasurer and Linda Owens, Corresponding Secretary.

The National Hairdressers and Cosmetologist Association of North Carolina, Inc. held its annual Delegate Session at the Hotel Sir Walter in Raleigh, N.C. August 21-23. Vazelle Jessup and Thomas Phelps attended as delegates.

The Albemarle Affiliate No. 53 won third place in the State New Membership Awards, accepted by Thomas Phelps.

The North Carolina Hair Fashion Committee presented a preview of the new fall style in costume, giving the "Total Look."

Local members attending the session were: Mrs. Judy Simons, Mrs. Betty Winslow, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Poulos, Debra and Melissa, Mrs. Carolyn Scott, Vazelle Jessup and Thomas Phelps.

State Hairdressers and student contests were held. Judy Simons, a student of College of the Albemarle, Cosmetology Program, participated in student competition with model, Betty Winslow.

Host To Board Of Directors Of E.I.C. Inc.

The Saint John Community of Chowan County was host to the Board of Directors of E.I.C. Inc. in its regular monthly meeting attended by representatives from eleven community groups within Chowan County. A fish and chicken dinner was served to some 400 persons.

E.I.C. Inc. Board of Directors approved by unanimous vote a proposed project designed to coordinate with Region "R" (ten county school systems) a regional in-service educational program which will include enrichment activities, teacher recruitment, staff development, public relations, and management leadership training.

This project was explained in detail to the E.I.C. Board by James "Pat" Harrell, Coordinator of Inservice Education, for the ten-county school systems within Region "R" of the State Regional Plan.

Chowan County Community Action Council held its regular meeting, demonstrating to EIC's Board, the coordination and cooperation of the several communities within Chowan. Many handicrafts, sewing, upholstery, and canned goods were on display from the various communities where people were showing their talents by their work.

Over $1,800. was reported by the twelve communities of Chowan County as being raised during the summer months to support the community interests programs.

Mrs. Elizabeth L. Byrd, Chairman of the Board, expressed on behalf of E.I.C. Inc., the agencies sincere thanks and appreciation to the host community and stated to the Board that she hoped the experience within Chowan County should help other counties make better plans for their people in planning programs to upgrade the entire ten-county area.

Enroll At Chowan College

Haywood Anderson Smith of Hertford, N.C., graduate of Albemarle Academy High School, has enrolled at Chowan College for the fall semester.

The son of Josia Smith will major in Business Administration and Sam Hourmouzis of Kitty Hawk, N.C., graduate of Mantoo High School, has enrolled at Chowan College for the fall semester. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hourmouzis will major in Pre-Optomety.

Chowan is a two-year, Baptist College. According to President Bruce E. Whitaker, its enrollment is close to 1800 with students attending from 28 states and 10 foreign countries.

The liberal arts program offers opportunities in business, English, health and physical education, languages, mathematics, nursing, religion and philosophy, and social sciences. In addition, the expanded fine arts program includes music, art and drama.

The college is also known for its School of Graphic Arts which prepares youth for careers with newspapers and in the printing industry. The School features black and white and color presses and other modern equipment.

The Annual Chowan-Perquimans County Cancer Crusade Kick-Off Dinner will be held at the Chowan Golf and Country Club Tuesday, Sept. 28, at 7:30 p.m.

Richard Buell of Jacksonville, N.C., Bank Official and State Cancer Executive Board Member, will be the guest speaker.

Mrs. Clara Schofield, local Vice Chairman, urges all members to attend this important meeting. Tickets may be purchased by contacting Mrs. Kay Tice by Sept. 25 ($3.00 per person).

BPW Club Has Program On Albemarle Mental Health Center

The Hertford BPW Club met Thursday night Sept. 16th at the home of Mrs. Roxanna Jackson with Mrs. Addie White as co-hostess. Preceding the program, a business session was presided over by Mrs. Addie White, president, who dispensed with old and new business. The club voted to sell Halloween candy next month as a fund raising project. Mrs. White announced that the Eastern Area Meeting would be held in Kinston Oct. 16 & 17.

Mrs. Marge Ambrose, program chairman, introduced the speaker of the evening, Don Dawson, of Elizabeth City who is affiliated with the Albemarle Mental Health Center which encompasses six counties from Chowan to Dare.

Mr. Dawson gave a very informative and interesting talk on the work of the mental health center explaining that the two goals were the prevention and treatment of mental illness. There are programs in the schools to help detect mental illness in children but the children, of course, cannot be treated without the consent and cooperation of the parents. After patients have been screened on the local level, psychologists and psychiatrists come in on certain days of the month to treat the patients. In this way, many can be treated at home who otherwise might have to enter a mental hospital. A future goal of the center is an in-patient facility for treatment of patients who need institutional care. Patients pay a fee according to their income and ability to pay. After adjournment, delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Mrs. Louise Barber, Misses Ann Tarleton and Maryann Stiefen were special guests of the club.

Claude Brinn Attends Meeting

William Claude Brinn of Hertford, was among some 20 members of Lions clubs serving on the Statewide Committee on Work for the Blind of the North Carolina Association for the Blind, Inc. who attended a meeting in Raleigh, Sept. 14 at state headquarters of the N.C. State Commission for the Blind.

Commission Executive Director Sam Early said the meeting was held to discuss cooperation between the state agency and local Lions Clubs to provide more effective service programs in prevention of blindness and service to blind and visually impaired people.

"The Commission for the Blind, as a state agency, and the people we serve, owe much to local Lions Clubs and to their state association. By providing supplemental services above and beyond what tax monies can provide, the Lions have helped North Carolina develop one of the most outstanding programs of service for the blind population in the nation," Early continued. He said the Commission last year spent around $10 million in local, state and federal support for service programs. The Association and local Lions clubs spent an additional sum totaling nearly half a million dollars. "This provided the topping for the cake or services which would not have been available otherwise."

Representing the N.C. Association for the Blind, Inc. on the program were Robert Spencer, Raleigh, Executive Director and Claude Brinn, Hertford, Chairman of the Statewide Committee on Work for the Blind.

Early and Commission administrative staff members outlined a program of current needs with which local Lions clubs can become involved. These include help to provide modern equipment for medical eye clinics; local sponsorship of shows and sales of craftwork made by the homebound blind and promotion of personal identification card project for legally blind people.

Antique Show To Be Held In Elizabeth City

The Junior Woman's Club of Elizabeth City, N.C., is making their second annual Albemarle Antiques Show a festive event. The show and sale, to be formally opened by Mayor John Bell on September 24, will run through September 26.

This year the show has been enlarged to include many more features and has been moved to the National Guard Armory in Elizabeth City. According to Mrs. Thomas Brite, co-chairman of the event, the show will have a variety of fine antiques with "something to please everyone in a down-home atmosphere."

Club women, who will be acting as hostesses, along with the antiques dealers, will appear in Colonial dress. For those who savor good home-cooked food, a separate kitchen and dining facility "Kate's Potpourri" will offer Carolina specialties such as barbecue and Brunswick stew.

Mrs. Brite says, "We have gone all out this year to make our show attractive to the public. Our door prize, donated by the club, is a beautiful new mink cape. There will also be daily certificates awarded for the purchase of antiques.

"We intend to have something for everyone's interest and to focus attention on the rich Albemarle tradition, as reflected in the displays of the Museum of the Albemarle."

Professional dealers will be bringing quality antiques to the show from North Carolina, Virginia, New Jersey, New York, and Maryland. Of special interest to women will be the rare old jewelry featured by the Dragon's Retreat of Ocean City, Maryland. For the men, Amesa Gun Shop of Chestertown, Maryland, will exhibit antique firearms and decoys.

Many of the dealers will be exhibiting in the area for the first time and will be offering furniture from all periods as well as the finest porcelains and glass, clocks and silver. Yesterdays of Norfolk is assisting in the show's production.

Funeral Services Held For Sgt. W.L. Bryant, Jr.

SM Sgt. William Lewis (Joe Baker) Bryant, Jr., USAF, 48, of 22 Sharlyn Drive, Shalimar, Fla., died Friday. He was the husband of Mrs. Billie White Bryant and a son of the late William Lewis Bryant, Sr. and Mrs. Annie Hill Bryant. A native of Berkeley, Norfolk, he had lived in South Norfolk until entering the Air Force. He had been in the Air Force for 23 years and was a member of South Norfolk Baptist Church.

Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Amos L. Poythress and Mrs. R.W. Rhodes of Chesapeake; and two brothers, Edward O. Bryant, of Norfolk and Richard Vernon Bryant of Chesapeake.

A funeral service was held at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday in Graham Funeral Home, South Norfolk. Burial with full military honor and Masonic rites were in Riverside Memorial Park.

Mrs. Bryant is the daughter of Mrs. J.V. Rountree of Belvidere.

Land Owners Improving Woodlands

We are fortunate in North-eastern North Carolina that our forest soils are well-suited for the production of timber. However, due to past cutting practices most of our woodlands are not satisfactorily stocked with desirable trees. Neither the "high pine sites" or the "low, moist hardwood sites" can be repeatedly high-graded and still produce periodic crops of timber. High-grading and diameter-limit cutting allows the cull trees or shade tolerant underbrush to dominate when the timber is harvested.

One method of reforesting poor stocked woodlands is by crushing the cull trees and underbrush with a crawler type tractor and heavy drum chopper. The chopped material is then burned and nursery grown seedlings are planted. The chopping shown above is taking place on the Louis Eaves Farm near Hertford. Mr. Eaves plans to reforest about 30 acres of cut-over pine land this year by the above method. He will receive technical assistance from the North Carolina Forest Service and cost-sharing assistance from the Perquimans County A.S.C.S. office.

Other landowners in Chowan and Perquimans Counties that are improving their woodlands this year are: Jacob Spivey, Hobbsville; N.D. Chappell, Hobbsville; Mary Winslow, Belvidere; Henry Stokes, Hertford; Carlton Davenport, Hertford; and Elijah White, Winfall.

To realize the full potential of our forest and to meet the future demands for timber we must keep our woodlands productive. Contact the North Carolina Forest Service for additional advice. Cost-sharing assistance is usually available from the County A.S.C.S. office and reduces the out-of-pocket costs per acre to a very reasonable amount.

Students Invited To Open House At N.C.S.U.

Perquimans County high school students, especially juniors and seniors, are being invited to attend the annual Open House program, Saturday, October 9, at North Carolina State University in Raleigh.

The Open House is sponsored by the University's School of Agriculture and Life Sciences and School of Forest Resources. Open House is held for career-minded high school students, their parents, teachers and career advisors. Also invited are other adults who are interested in finding out more about the statewide activities of N.C. State through its research and extension programs.

Richard Bryant, chairman of the Perquimans County Open House committee, handling local arrangements for those who plan to attend the 1971 Open House October 9.

Special exhibits will be open to the public beginning at 10:00 a.m. in Reynolds Coliseum. They will show the many phases of agriculture, life sciences, and forestry available to students at N.C. State. Faculty members and students will be on hand to discuss career opportunities, curriculums, admission requirements and campus life activities.

The exhibits will remain open until 3 p.m. Time will also be

Drugs Taken In Burglary

HERTFORD—"Hard narcotics" valued at $1,500-$2,000 were taken in a burglary of Harmon's Pharmacy, making it the largest drug theft in the town's history, Police Chief Benjamin Gibbs reported.

In addition, thieves took two electric razors and 23 watches, according to Proprietor J.E. Sparks who discovered the theft at 8 a.m. Friday.

Gibbs told The Daily Advance "It, (burglary) occurred sometime between 7 p.m. Thursday when the store was closed and 8 a.m. Friday when Sparks arrived to open for the day. But we're not sure when."

The chief said he is being aided in the investigation by three State Bureau of Investigation agents, adding that, "we are working on it as hard as we can."

He described the missing pills, and capsules, and said they were taken from a cabinet behind the pharmacist's counter.

"None of the doors to the store were touched during the night," said Gibbs.

Because his department makes regular checks on the door throughout the night Gibbs feels that entry to the store must have been via the roof.

"I think they got in from a window up there and then came down into the store through an elevator shaft and went out that way too," he said.

"Whoever these people were they were real pros and knew exactly what they wanted," Gibbs said.

Local Teachers Eligible For State, National Recognition

Classroom teachers in the Perquimans County School system this year will have an opportunity to recommend one of their colleagues as Teacher of the Year candidate. Finding the "best classroom teacher" in North Carolina would be an impossible task, but the search is on for one superior representative of the finest in the teaching profession.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction A. Craig Phillips announced that North Carolina has begun looking for its candidate for 1972 National Teacher of the Year, who will represent good teachers everywhere.

Phillips said, "Again this year, we have an exciting opportunity to focus on good teaching through the annual award program sponsored by the Council of Chief State School Officers and Look magazine. The next few weeks promise to be rewarding ones for those educators, parents, students and community friends of education who will have the pleasure of recognizing potential National Teacher of the Year candidates through their local and regional selections. Then, on November 15, it will be my great honor, as chief school officer of this state, to nominate one of our many fine classroom teachers to represent North Carolina in the nationwide program."

Coordinating the statewide effort is Sam Hill, consultant in

Moving Expense Deduction Available From IRS

The Internal Revenue Service announced today that it will mail to any newcomer to North Carolina, or to anyone who moves at least 50 miles from town to town within the state, a copy of Publication 521 which explains how these people can take tax advantage of the cost of moving, if the move was job related.

J.E. Wall, District Director, says that anyone who moves at least 50 miles from one city to another to acquire a new job or to transfer locations with his present employer, is probably entitled to deduct the cost of unreimbursed expenses of moving, which in many cases, is a sizeable deduction, and can save the taxpayer a large amount of tax on his next tax return.

If you have moved to a job at least 50 miles from your old job site during the year, you are entitled to write IRS for Publication 521 which explains how to deduct the expense. College graduates leaving home for their initial jobs in another city are entitled to the moving expense deduction.

National Highway Week Proclaimed

With the theme, "Roads and Streets—Backbone of Total Transportation," Governor Bob Scott has proclaimed the week of September 19 to September 25 National Highway Week and urged North Carolinians to observe it.

Pointing out that "experience has shown that the benefits of adequate highways exceed their cost," the governor's proclamation cited "reduced accident and driving expenses, time savings, enhancement of property values, and encouragement of industrial, commercial and residential development" as some of the benefits.

"North Carolina is engaged in an extensive program to upgrade its highway system," the proclamation said, "to meet the needs of its people and the state's growing economy."

He added that, "the constant need for better highways of adequate capacity to satisfy the ever-increasing traffic demands, requires the understanding and support of all our citizens."
