Christmas Parade Big Success

Last week's Christmas parade was described by its sponsors, the Perquimans County Chamber of Commerce, and by all who participated in it and viewed it, as the best one ever in the county.

More floats - and the best ones yet - and more bands, made for more excitement, enjoyed by a very large crowd in spite of cold, wet weather.

As you can see by the picture there were lots of pretty girls and lots of clowning around. The young lady is Angela Osmon, a member of the Northeastern High School band - and the clown is Clarence Z. 'Shack' Shackelford.

Today Marks Grand Opening For Two Perquimans County Businesses

Today (Thursday) is grand opening day for not one, but two Perquimans County businesses. A sure sign of progress, according to the Chamber of Commerce.

There will be ribbon-cutting ceremonies and invitations to all area residents to visit Phillips Bros. Furniture Store and the new Super Dollar Store. At 8:30 a.m. Mayor Bill Cox and others will be on hand to do the honors at Phillips Bros. at the site of their present location, U.S. 17 bypass.

At nine o'clock the entourage will go to the Harris Shopping Center and do the honors at the opening ceremonies of the new and enlarged Super Dollar Store.

Note that both of these events come just in time to make Christmas shopping a lot easier.

The Chamber of Commerce invites everyone to join them at both locations this (Thursday) morning.

Dr. Harold White Accepts Call To Sing At Bethlehem Church

Dr. Harold White of Belvidere has accepted a call to serve as pastor of the Bethlehem and Morton Memorial Presbyterian Churches in Nash County near Rocky Mount, N.C. Dr. and Mrs. White plan to move to Rocky Mount about February 1.

For ten years Dr. White has represented the North Carolina Council of Churches in the work of ministry to migrant farm workers in the Albemarle. Before that he was English teacher and debate coach at Perquimans County High School in Hertford. He and his family have lived in Belvidere since March, 1953. Mrs. White teaches sixth grade in Perquimans County Union School at Winfall. "Since our home is here, our decision to leave was not easy to make, and we hope to return to live in Belvidere some day," Dr. White said. "Since I am chairman of the North Carolina Council of Churches Committee on Ministry with Migrants, I will still be involved in the Migrant Ministry, although I will miss the direct contact with migrants in this area each summer, and with the people of many churches who have supported this ministry in this area. I urge all Christian people to maintain and increase their concern in this work."

Dr. and Mrs. White have two children, Charles, a senior at Westminster Theological Seminary, Philadelphia, Pa., and Geneva Lucy, a sophomore at East Carolina University in Greenville, N.C.

The "Spokesmen Quartet" of Roanoke Bible College in Elizabeth City will present a program of favorite gospel songs and Christmas songs at Bethlehem Church of Christ, Route 1, Hertford on Wednesday, December 15 at 8 o'clock.

The quartet is made up of students of Roanoke Bible College and are well known throughout Eastern North Carolina Churches of Christ. They would like to meet you at this program.

Night Before Christmas Theme Of Homemakers

Shown above is Greg and Linda Carol Barclift, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.D. Barclift, and Monica Roach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Roach.

"The Night Before Christmas" was the theme of the Extension Homemaker's Holiday Exhibits which were on display December 1, 2, and 3 at the County Office Building. During the three days the following clubs participated in the sharing of Christmas ideas: Helen Gaither, Snow Hill-White Hat, Bethel, Winfall, Whiteston and Belvidere, Beech Springs, and Burgess.

"There were many highlights of the events," states Mrs. Paige Underwood, Home Economics Extension Agent; including originality, artistic talents, and cooperation among homemakers in the county. The combined efforts brought the Holiday feeling to the 300 men, women and children who attended.

Christmas trees became the focal point of the seven exhibits as a special theme was selected by each club. The felt theme by Helen Gaither featured a tree trimmed in hand-made padded felt ornaments. Other felt items included a Wall Hanging of the Twelve Days of Christmas, felt tree skirt, pillows, door knob covers, can covers, pictures, card holders, flowers, bells, and others.

The Old Fashion theme by Snow Hill-White Hat featured a tree dressed with popcorn draping, small packages and candy canes. Other old fashioned ideas included candles, fruits, and wreaths. Winfall Club dressed their tree in white doves and white satin ornaments to carry out a green and white theme. Packages under the tree and fresh slower arrangements completed the display.

Egg shell and egg carton craft were featured by Bethel Club. Covered Egg shells with lights inside were used on the tree. Other ornaments for gifts or table use had been decorated carefully with braids, laces, fabric, and jewels. The Unique Tree by Whiteston was a curiosity to all. It featured decorated household articles usually thrown away such as pill, alcohol, detergent and bleach bottles; empty spoons, light bulbs, clothes pins, old Christmas Cards, egg cartons, handles, and just by using imagination, many new decorations skillfully assembled. Touches of braids, sparkles, and glitter, made the castaways become Christmas treasures. Whiteston also exhibited wreaths, arrangements, and gift ideas of unique quality.

The Red Velvet Theme by Belvidere featured a Table Setting for Christmas Dinner arranged as a giant package tied with Red Velvet Bow. Fifteen yards of red velvet cord showed contrast as it draped on the live green cedar tree. Also red velvet bows, drums and packages completed a traditional Christmas look.

The children's Christmas tree was a bare branch tree dressed with Christmas cookies and handmade items that would appeal to children. Beech Springs Club also displayed games and gifts on their table and around the tree.

Christmas foods were on exhibit including: Cheese ball, Apple Sauce loaf cakes, walnut coffee Strips, Christmas Cakes, Salads, candies, cookies.

The miscellaneous table featured arrangements, stuffed animals, candles, decorated hat, wreaths, and several gift ideas. Since there was so much to see, many returned to make a second visit to a Christmas Shop of ideas.

Refreshments were served by Burgess Club and the table was decorated with red cloth, silver candleabras, and fresh fruit. Those welcoming guests for the three days were: Mrs. Belvin Eure, Mrs. Joe Towe White, Sr., Mrs. C.T. Rogerson, Jr., Mrs. Dewey Perry, Jr. and Mrs. George Winslow, Mrs. Leslie Narron, Mrs. Kathy Gossage, Mrs. Joel Hollowell, Sr. Mrs. George Roach, Mrs. Lona Stallings, Mrs. Fred Matthews, Mrs. Emily Harrell, Mrs. Gordon Shaw.

Many others helped to make the Christmas Exhibits a success.
