New Registration Procedures For The Draft

The Selective Service System announced today new registration procedures for the draft. Under the new provisions, a registrant must register with a draft board or a draft registrar within the period 30 days before to 30 days after his 18th birthday. He must bring some official type of identification with him when he registers, such as his birth certificate, Social Security Account Number card, drivers license, school or college activity card, or a credit card. The new registration procedures are designed to make registration more registrant-oriented and draft board operations more streamlined. Registration will consist of filling out a Registration Card. Additionally, a new Registration Questionnaire also must be filled out, although the registrant can take the questionnaire with him, or it may be mailed to him. He must return it within 10 days. The new Registration Questionnaire requires the names and addresses of three persons outside the registrant's immediate family who will always know his address. The names, relationships, and addresses of all the registrant's family over age 16 also must be listed. In addition, the form includes questions inquiring whether the registrant believes he qualifies for a hardship deferment, for status as a conscientious objector, for a surviving son exemption, or for other Selective Service deferments and exemptions.

Washington Report

By Congressman Walter Jones

Last week once again the interest of the people focused on Apollo 16. I had the pleasure of being at Cape Kennedy on Sunday, April 16 and witnessing the launching. It was a most impressive sight, and it was estimated that in excess of one million people were present in the general area. It is hard to visualize the preparations which must be made for a successful launch. One of the highlights was visiting the building in which the module is constructed; it is 533 feet from the floor to the ceiling, and contains accordion type sliding doors which when opened, is large enough to permit the United Nations building to pass through same. The trip was provided by NASA, and an interesting sidelight was that King Hussein of Jordan, who pilots his own aircraft, in attempting to take off in his jet plane, damaged the wing of the plane on which we were supposed to return.

Later during the week the House considered the authorization for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for fiscal year '73.

This provided for approximately $3 1/2 billion. I guess I was not impressed enough, for on final passage, I voted no. As exciting as the space program is, I am convinced that there are other priorities which at least for the time being, should take precedence over these huge expenditures.

Another matter that created much interest here on Capitol Hill was the action of the Democratic Caucus in passing a resolution which requires the Democratic members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee to perfect legislation within 30 days setting a definite withdrawal date of all troops from Vietnam, contingent upon total and complete release of all prisoners of war. This is the first time the House has taken such positive action and indicates the total dissatisfaction with our present involvement. I supported this resolution.

Also during the week the House appropriated $2 million to create a study commission on juvenile delinquency. On this I voted no not that I am indifferent towards the problems of juvenile delinquency, but the fact that the Department of Justice which already has the authority to create such a Commission, was strongly against the legislation.

Treat Power Mowers With Respect

When you unlimber that power lawn mower this Spring, don't forget that gasoline can be powerfully dangerous. This word of caution comes from Fire Chief Nixon.

Avoid becoming a statistic in National Fire Protection Association records of power mower accidents by following these rules offered by NFPA and Chief Nixon:

1. Do all refueling outdoors where dangerous gasoline vapors can't accumulate.
2. When refueling, observe the "No Smoking" rule without exception and keep away from all other possible ignition sources.
3. Wipe up any spilled fuel before starting the motor.
4. Store your gasoline in a tight-closing metal can - never in an easily-broken glass jug or bottle.

Higher Quail Limit Among Proposed Hunting Changes

An increase in the bag limit for quail from eight to ten birds daily heads the list of changes proposed by the N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission for the 1972-1973 hunting season.

The Commission will also propose changes in the bow-hunting regulations to permit archers to take deer of either sex during the early archery season in all areas where a gun season for deer will follow. Also, the Wildlife Commission will propose the elimination of big game tagging on the Game Lands.

These are among the proposed changes which will be presented to the public for comment at nine hearings scheduled across the state during May. Dates, places and times for the hearings are below.

Under the proposal, the daily limit for quail would be increased from eight birds to ten, and the possession limit would increase from 16 to 20.

"The average quail hunter kills only about two birds per hunt, and this fact combined with information from our statewide survey indicates that the increased limit would have little or no detrimental effect on the quail population," said Frank Barick, chief of the Division of Game. "In fact, according to surveys and hunter reports, there appear to be more quail in North Carolina now than ever before."

"The big game tagging system which was used on the Game Lands last year didn't work out as well as we had hoped," added Barick. "For that reason, we're proposing to drop it for this coming season." Barick also indicated that the proposal to allow archers to take either-sex deer during the early bow season is in line with regulations in most other states, and would not deplete deer herds.

In other action, the Commission will propose to shorten the deer season in Cumberland, Harnett, Hoke, Moore, Richmond, Scotland and northern Sampson counties as a result of the reduced deer herd in the vicinity of Ft. Bragg and the Sandhills Game Land. The season in these counties could be November 20 through December 16—the same dates as for the rest of the counties in the central part of the state.

"Many sportsmen have asked for this shorter season, and our biologists also confirm the need for it," explained Barick.

Proposed changes also include a longer deer season in northwestern counties. For several years, some northwestern counties had only a one-week season. The herd has increased in these northwestern counties, and the Commission is proposing a uniform two-week western season beginning November 20 and lasting through December 2. The split season on black bear would be from October 16 through November 18 and from December 25 through January 1. The hunting seasons for bear, wild boar, deer (in the east), raccoons, opossums, squirrels and wildcats would all open October 16 to provide uniformity in opening dates.

The Commission also will propose four new bear sanctuaries where bears may be neither hunted nor killed. They are Shelton Laurel in Madison County, Holly Shelter in Pender County, Hollow Ground Swamp in Tyrrell County and Thurmond Chatham in Wilkes County.

The grouse season in Ashe and Alleghany counties would be lengthened to conform to the statewide season (October 16 through February 28). A three-year study indicated no reason for a shorter season in these counties.

In Wake County beaver trapping would be prohibited. Also, under the proposals, raccoons could not be shot in Avery County.

In addition to the elimination of the big game tag requirement, the Wildlife Commission will also propose the following changes in regulations on the nearly two million acres of Game Lands in the state:

1. Prohibit raccoon hunting on bear sanctuaries on the Game Lands located in the western part of the state. This regulation, requested by many sportsmen, would curtail bear and deer hunting with dogs—under the guise of coon hunting—in the sanctuaries.
2. Prohibit the deposit of litter, trash, garbage or other refuse on Game Lands or the establishment of dumps or landfills on any Game Land without permission of the owner.

3. Remove Blue Valley and Toxaway Game Lands from the list of restoration areas, and open them to hunting. Game stocks have increased sufficiently to allow this move.
4. Require a Game Lands Use Permit for fur trapping or dog training on Game Lands.
5. Make it unlawful to shoot a bow and arrow as well as a firearm within 200 yards of any building, camping area or safety zone on the Game Lands.

6. Open block A-4 on the Sandhills Game Land to small game hunting. Previously, this area was open only to deer and dove hunting.

Butner and Uwharrie, extreme hunting pressure and hazard should be reduced.

North Carolina's hunters are urged to attend the public hearings nearest them and present their opinions and suggestions. Following evaluation of the hearings, the Wildlife Commission will adopt the final regulations on June 12, 1972.
