Matching Funds Must Be Raised

The Perquimans County Restoration Association, Inc. will be the recipient of grants totaling $37,500—provided matching funds can be raised by July 1, 1973.

Those funds must be raised locally or through an outside source—or the county does not get that grant money.

This and other important information was revealed at a meeting last week attended by some Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors members, members of the Town Council and the Restoration Association.

Total cost of restoring the Newbold-White House will be about $80,000—total cost of the entire project, that is opening the house and ground to tourists and moving the Theophilus White House to the area to be used as a museum—will be about $200,000.

A lot of money? Indeed, it is. But it can mean so much more to the county so far as visitors and what they spend here are concerned. This has been proven in other areas—and we can do the same.

The Newbold-White House, according to the State Department of Archives and History, is the oldest building in North Carolina, and that fact alone means a tremendous tourist attraction.

The Theophilus White House, which dates back to about 1700, will be a skeletal museum so that visitors can see how homes were put together in those days. Tools and equipment will also be on display. The only other such known exhibit is in the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C.

Rev. Edwin Williams, executive director of the Restoration Association, said the Newbold-White House, even though far from being officially opened, has, since last September, attracted 360 visitors. They have made special arrangements to see it—so it doesn't take much imagination to know how many people it will attract as a regular tourist site.

Students Honored In National Awards

William E. Byrum, principal of Perquimans County High School announced today the selection of the school's students who have been chosen as members of The Society of Outstanding American High School Students, the country's leading high school honorary. The students honored are:

Bobby Hollowell, Mackey Lewis, Linda Evans, Terry Copeland, Jack Harrell, Sally Ann Bundy, Ellen Long, Wayne Proctor, Kathy Marren, Frances White and Eva Newby. With the assistance of high school principals and coun-sors from across the nation, The Society of Outstanding American High School Students strives to further the pursuit of academic achievement and civic responsibility on the part of American youth.

The Society accepts for membership only young men and women who have distinguished themselves as their school's highest achievers.

Members are now competing for over $580,000.00 in renewable college scholarships offered by The Society.

These scholarships consist of unrestricted cash awards to colleges of the students' choice and renewable annual scholarships to selected colleges and universities across the nation. The Society of Outstanding American High School Students Awards Program is one of the largest of its kind in the country.

Society members are recognized annually in a published volume entitled The Society of Outstanding American High School Students, which is distributed nationally to colleges, universities, corporations and libraries.

Because of their accomplishments, these students are most deserving of recognition by the school, the community, and the nation. As leaders of American youth they represent one of the most important segments of our society.

Minimum Tillage Is A Good Practice

The above pictures taken by Soil Conservation Service show Floyd Mathews planting soybeans immediately following combine with no land preparation and the soybeans several weeks later.

Minimum tillage is a very good practice for controlling both wind and water erosion. In minimum tillage the crop is planted directly in the residue of the preceding crop or in a cover crop without any land preparation. Planters have to be adapted to this type of planting. Ample fertilizer must be applied and control sprays must be properly applied to kill all living vegetation and keep weeds and grass from getting started.

The vegetative cover left on the land protects it from washing or blowing and helps retain a more favorable moisture balance for good crop growth. This method of planting can save considerable time and labor in getting soybeans planted following small grain.

There is no delay in planting date due to extensive land preparations. Yields are comparable to conventional methods of planting. All crop residues are utilized which increases soil tilth, water holding and intake capacities.

This method eliminates burning of straw and no air pollution from smoke. This type of planting provides for better harvesting operations in wet periods due to the undisturbed conditions of the soil.

The Perquimans and Chowan Soil and Water Conservation Committees have purchased parts and assembled a set of planters for minimum tillage planting. The planters are available to farmers in Perquimans and Chowan counties who would like to try planting some soybeans following small grain by this method.
