Jesse Helms dug post-holes for the R-E-A the summer following his graduation from high school. He was paid 25 cents an hour, and when he went off to Wake Forest that Fall, he had a total of sixty dollars and 50 cents saved. That's all. Those were depression days, and there was no money — just opportunity for those who really wanted to make it. Jesse Helms washed dishes for his room and board at Wake Forest, and held down two other jobs at the same time — including one in a newspaper office over in Raleigh. He was three o'clock in the morning getting to bed — but he made it. Jesse Helms has never asked for the EASY way. All his life he has worked to help make things better than he found them. He was described recently as the citizen who has done more for crippled children than any other man in the history of North Carolina. This Jesse Helms is the man you can help send to the United States Senate — with your vote, in November.

YES, I believe in Jesse Helms and I want to help elect him as our Citizen-Senator. I'm enclosing my contribution of:
