Feeder Pig Cooperative In Operation Soon

The Albemarle Feeder Pig Cooperative will soon be in operation. There are still a few things to be done at the building site. The weather will have a great deal to do with the final preparation of the lot. The building is complete except for some finish work in the office area.

Sale dates will be the first and third Thursdays of each month. The first sale will be announced later. Any farmer can put pigs in these sales, whether he is a member of the Co-op or not. Also, you should know that this will be a graded, quality feeder pig sale. The pigs will be graded according to their quality and penned according to grand and weight.

The sale itself will be unique to many of our people in that the buyer does not have to be at the sale. The barn will be hooked into the Tele-auction system. A person anywhere in the State can participate in the auction by telephone. Of course, you could also buy pigs by being present at the sale. Since the pigs are graded the buyer knows what quality pig he is bidding on. By using this system, buyer numbers are greatly increased.

Under the present regulation on Swine movement the pigs going to these sales must be inspected on the farm. They will not be accepted at the barn without the inspection permit.

Wilt Resistant Tomatoes Introduced

The Venus and Saturn are the new wilt resistant tomato varieties. These are the first two bacterial wilt resistant tomato varieties ever introduced in the world. They were named and introduced by N.C. State University last year. This discovery should be of interest to those growers having problems with Southern Bacterial Wilt and Fusarium Wilt. The fruits of Venus and

Also, when the sales get started it is important that the manager, Gene Nixon, know how many pigs to expect at each sale. You should contact him at 482-3734. Also, you will need to call the Extension office to be sure of having your inspection permit. If you have any questions, about this method of marketing your feeder pigs, please call on the Extension office or Mr. Nixon.

Saturn are smooth, attractively red, moderately resistant to radial cracking, and equal to Floredel, Honstead 24, and Fireball in over all appearance. Maturity is from midseason to late. Fruits have good flavor and the internal features are satisfactory. The major difference between Venus and Saturn is in the fruit shape. Venus is slightly oblate, whereas Saturn is a deep globe. These varieties were developed for the fresh market and have performed well in both trellis and ground trials.

Anyone desiring more information about the two varieties should contact any of the County Agents.

1972 Good Year For School Bond Issues

Voters in North Carolina appeared more eager to approve school construction bond issues during 1972 than in recent years. Thirteen bond issue referendums were held in local school districts during the year and only three of them were defeated, one by only nine votes.

This continues a trend that was first evident in 1971 when four bond issues were approved and three defeated.

The figures were released by the State Department of Public Instruction.

"This is further evidence that we have turned the corner in North Carolina and that the voters once again have enough confidence in their schools to invest tax money in needed construction," commented State School Superintendent Craig Phillips.

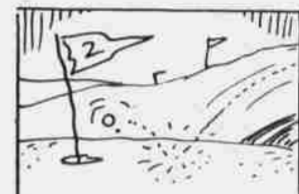

The bond issues approved during the year were: Lincoln County, $4 million; Sampson County (Roseboro-Salemburg District), $800,000; Stokes County, $5 million; Martin County, $4.5 million; Transylvania County, $4.9 million; Surry County, $6 million; Shelby City, $1.7 million; Sampson County (Clement School District), $175,000; Vance County, $2 million; and Kings Mountain, $2.5 million. The total value of the bond issues approved during the year was $31,575,000.

The two largest bond issues proposed during the year were defeated; a $20 million proposal in Durham and Durham County, and a $9.7 million request in Cabarrus County. Also defeated, by only nine votes, was a $4 million request in Cleveland County.
