The chap who takes on difficult runs before he has learned to master them properly, or who teaches himself rather than hire an instructor or enroll in a ski school is most likely to sprain an ankle or break a bone.

Today's bindings are a light-year leap ahead of those of just ten years ago.
The toe binding is a swivel and the resistance to turning can be regulated by the skier.

ing programs that cannot be financed adequately.
