IN RALEIGH
Mrs. T. B. Sumner is spending some time in Raleigh with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Sumner, Jr.

Sam Ervin Says

WASHINGTON—President Nixon's Phase IV economic controls were only hours old when it became evident that prices of many consumer products, including many foods, were on their way up. Not only that, beef I am told is in short supply and it may become a scarce item on the family table in a matter of days.

The cost of owning a home and keeping it operating is going up at a rapid rate. Housing costs are rising far more rapidly than incomes and so are home repairs, and day-to-day expenses. The energy crisis, among other things, is adding greatly to the cost of keeping a residence.

Inflation and the conditions which it breeds poses immense problems for us all whether we are growers, manufacturers, craftsmen or consumers. Once again we see that controls and price freezes work only for a short time, and only permit us to correct fundamental defects in the economy.

What we are witnessing now in respect to inflation is in large measure due to excesses in federal spending that have eroded the value of the dollar and the resources of our country. Many of our troubles today are due to the unwise philosophy that was widely held in high places in our government in the years following World War II that our country could afford the luxury of giving away vast amounts of our resources to other nations—more than $150 billion—without any detriment to the country. That philosophy also made it impossible to hold down the costs of social welfare programs in this country. When the United States gave large sums to the citizens of other nations it could not politically deny benefits to our own impoverished citizens.

Soon the "red ink" began to pile up yearly in the federal budget and new budget concepts were adopted by one Administration after another to conceal the magnitude and the consequences of deficit spending from the people.

There is hope that change is on the way. Congress is making efforts at this session to restore fiscal responsibility in government. Fiscal responsibility ought to be a matter of the highest priority. I am pleased that a bill which I introduced on April 11 to establish new congressional budget procedures to set ceilings on both outlays and budget authority, S. 1541, was approved last week by the Senate Subcommittee on Budgeting, Management and Expenditures of the Government Operations Committee. That bill now goes to the full Government Operations Committee, of which I am Chairman. I trust that the Committee can report this bill to the Senate after the August recess.

The adoption of this measure would provide budget control by creating standing committees on the budget in both Houses of Congress, establishing a Congressional Office of the Budget equivalent in status to the General Accounting Office, moving up the date of submission of the President's Budget from January to November 15 each year, providing for congressional review and approval of new so-called "backdoor spending" authority, requiring the adoption before April 15 each year of a concurrent resolution establishing overall and major category ceilings of the budget.

Let's Help Michelle

For several weeks, the Perquimans Weekly has run newsworthy stories concerning a very determined young lady. She is Michelle Boyce of Belvidere. Michelle and her horse "Sun's Candy Bar" have gone far. Starting out as a 4-H project, the talented young champ has gone on to take ribbons and trophies as numerous events. Her most recent conquest was winning first place in the District 4-H show in Raleigh. As a result of that, Michelle will soon be heading to Dallas, Tex. to enter in the competition.

The trip means a lot to her as well as to the county, since she will be a representative of it while in Texas. All county residents and businesses are urged to please make contributions to Michelle's trip. Without the support of the county people, her dream will be impossible. To do this, you may contact Kerry Jones at the Perquimans County Extension Office.

Men Attending Forestry Camp

Young men from 39 counties throughout North Carolina are attending the State's 27th annual Forest Resources Camp this week at Schaub 4-H Camp. More than 70 students are learning principles of conserving and improving the forest, America's major renewable resource. Professional foresters and game managers from state agencies and from the forest industries provide instruction in ecology, forest renewal, timber harvesting and utilization, wildfire control and game management.

Sponsored by the Southern Forest Institute as part of its educational program, the camp is conducted by the North Carolina Forest Service. Financing is contributed by: Albemarle Paper Co., Roanoke Rapids; Champion International Corp., Canton; Dillon Supply Co., Raleigh; Evans Products Co., Moncure; Georgia-Pacific Corp., Ahsokie; International Paper Co., Wilmington; Olin Corp., Pisgah Forest; Westvaco Corp., Summerville, S.C.; and Weyerhaeuser Co., Plymouth.

In addition to their studies, the boys have frequent opportunities for swimming, softball, volleyball and other recreational activities. Outstanding campers will receive prizes for excellence in forestry work, camping and athletic events.
