

Poetry Comes To 4-H's Meet Hertford School

By FRANCINE SAWYER

Tom Heffernan came to Hertford last week and let the students of Hertford

UMYF Observe Meeting

The Chowan-Perquimans Sub-district UMYF met Sunday, May 5 in Woodland United Methodist Church at 3:45 p.m.

The meeting was called to order by the President, Barry Lane. He thanked the sub-district for helping him serve as president during the year '73-74. Donna Baker gave the devotion and talked on the qualifications of the officers. Everyone joined in singing, Pass it One, and God is so Good to Me. Donna led us in prayer.

The minutes of the last meeting and of the council meeting were read and approved. The roll was called with 61 members present.

The treasury report was given with $278.57. An offering was taken and presented to God.

Under the business session, Barry reminded everyone of the council meeting on May 13 at Anderson. Seniors were reminded of the scholarships given each year. ACS is in July and anyone wishing to go should see their minister.

Debbie Harrell gave a report on the United Nations-Washington Study Tour. She thanked everyone for the money and support that the sub-district gave her.

The election of officers was held by Rev. Hoogerland and the new officers. The meeting was dismissed by the new president and a banquet supper was served by the host church.

An Installation Service was held by Rev. Hoogerland and the new officers. The meeting was dismissed by the new president and a banquet supper was served by the host church.

Grammar do just what they wanted to do.

No, the educational system at Hertford Grammar School hasn't gone to the radical way-out. Heffernan is a poet, and he brings out the poet potential in every one with their verses of prose.

The poet is one of the several in the state who travels about the 100 North Carolina counties, as a pied piper luring children with creative progress and individuality.

Heffernan has a mixture of a New England and British accent. He was born on the Boston coast, attended the University of Manchester in England and came to North Carolina three years ago as a professor at North Carolina State University in Raleigh.

He has been a published poet for 15 years. His work has been in Southern Poetry Review, has won state and national awards, and for the first time he is showing the "little people" how they can create poetry wonders.

A recent session went like this:

The third through fifth graders sat in the library and took their paper and pencils in hand just like any other poet. They were very talkative and excited. The students are allowed to talk. According to the poet instructor, to make them be quiet would be the end. They would not produce. "Poetry is a freedom," Heffernan said.

So they talk and under his direction the students learn terms. They find out what they are writing and what it is called.

Mike Hogan, a sixth grader wrote a poem called Golden Buttercups. It went like this:

Golden buttercups covered the ground
Enticing the bees like honey
Enticing children
Once a rabbit ate them all
Nothing was left
Like a desert, the meadow was bare
Every bee was sad
But the buttercups bloomed again
Like a newborn child.

At its May meeting the Roadrunners 4-H Club had as its guest, Charles Woodard, who discussed medicine cabinets and the safekeeping of drugs.

He passed out pamphlets relating to the topic and then answered some questions from the club members.

The Roadrunners will display, next week, posters in area store windows, with some important tips about medicine cabinets, how long to keep drugs, how to use them, and so on.

The club felt the subject is important, although not much is said about it and we feel that if the tips presented help even a few, the project will be worthwhile.

All participating club members will receive credit for the project as part of their health project.

In addition to the posters, they will broadcast information on the topic all next week over radio station WCDJ in Edenton.

The club members wrote a letter of thanks to Mr. Woodard, but also wants to thank him publicly for taking the time to work so nicely with them, and for helping to make the project a success.

Youngsters participating in the project will meet Saturday at 1:30 in the County Office Building, then go downtown to put up the posters, then to the radio station in Edenton.

There will also be a discussion of planned summertime activities.

MORE CIGARETTES

Last year's output of cigarettes increased 7.5 percent to 644 billion. Filter-tip cigarette output continued to gain and its share rose to about 85 percent of the total.

Rodeo Results

Twelve Perquimans High School senior bus drivers participated in a school bus rodeo held at the driving course behind John A. Holmes High School in Edenton last Friday morning.

In eight minutes, each driver was required to drive through a course which included making maneuvers that put into practice the things they have learned in the classroom and during driving. The course included such things as backing up, passenger stops and making difficult turns. Each driver used a 60 passenger size bus. Points were deducted for frequent starts and stalls, jerky movements, hitting blockades and for leaving the field at any time, the driver was disqualified.

There were two categories, male and female, with first and second place cash awards presented in each class. Winners were: 1st place male: Joe Richardson; 2nd place male: Willie Felton; 1st place female: Joyce Hollowell; 2nd place female: Diane Eure
