Editorial: Let's Celebrate

1976. A New Year. The 200th birthday of America. A New Year means different things for different people. For some it is a time for change, a time for commitments for a better life — for learning from past mistakes and starting the new year with renewed enthusiasm. It can be a time for us to resolve to improve ourselves and our community.

But this new year is a very special one for citizens all over this great country. Now is the time to celebrate the existence of this nation for 200 long, struggling, but successful years.

Will you be joining in the celebration? Will you take advantage of the opportunities offered you to rejoice as a county and join the rest of the nation in our Bicentennial observance?

Hertford and Perquimans County have been designated as a Bicentennial Community. Much work has been done and much progress has been made in restoring the oldest home in the state, the Newbold-White House. A Bicentennial Committee has been appointed to plan and coordinate activities in celebration of the 200th birthday. The Hertford Beautification Committee is making a special effort to clean up and beautify our town in preparation for the celebration. And the same can be done throughout the rest of the county. Students in art classes at Perquimans High School have volunteered their time and energy to dress up our fire hydrants in the Bicentennial spirit. The Hertford Fifes and Drums have organized and dressed in colonial costumes to provide Bicentennial music for our county and the surrounding area. All of these things have been the result of efforts of individuals to give other individuals an opportunity to participate in the Bicentennial, and an opportunity for us to take pride in our community, state and nation.

Throughout this year new, town and county officials and agencies, civic clubs, church groups, and other individuals will be sponsoring special Bicentennial programs and projects for you to enjoy and participate in.

Will you be joining in the celebration? We certainly hope so.

The Work Ethic

By JOHN SLEDGE
N.C. Farm Bureau Federation

In the almost two centuries of our existence as a nation, some of the ideas and ideals that motivated our forefathers to make good in the new country seem to have declined in acceptance. That's why some of the writings of early day America sound somewhat quaint to us today.

One idea in particular that seems to have taken on the aura of an old-fashioned belief is that of the work ethic. Benjamin Franklin believed in it and practiced it. He writes in his autobiography of working from early morning to late at night in his printing shop to outdo his competition and establish his own financial security.

A lesser known American — but no less a believer in the hard-work ethic — was Col. Landon Carter of Virginia. In 1776, he was deploring the degeneracy of his times. What Carter was concerned about was the fact that people were beginning to use plows in raising wheat. He noted that his hard-working father had raised large quantities of wheat for export and had done it by using nothing more than a hoe.

If the colonel could come back to modern-day American and see the accomplishments of farm mechanization, he might have some second thoughts about the relationship between degeneracy and the use of farm implements.

He would soon come to realize that agricultural machinery has freed much of the nation's manpower to work in plants and factories to help develop our industrialization.

Jobs Well Done

At a recent Perquimans County Jaycee Board of Directors meeting, Jaycee President Welly White recognized two Jaycee members for their outstanding work on recent Jaycee projects. They were Ben Berry, chairman of the Christmas Parade and Lee Tunnell, chairman of the Cerebral Palsy Walk-A-Thon.

Participation On The Rise

WASHINGTON, D.C. — On the eve of America's Bicentennial year, the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA) reports that over three quarters of the nation's population live in officially designated Bicentennial Communities.

As of December, 7,919 communities had been officially recognized for their Bicentennial efforts. The figure includes 28 Indian tribes and nations.

Additionally, 808 college campuses and 256 Armed Forces installations had joined the Bicentennial rolls.

Following approval by its 11-member policy board at their December meeting, the ARBA has announced that the Communities and College Campus recognition programs will be cut-off as of March 31 to allow time for processing applications before July 4.

The Board also approved a January 31 cut-off date for license applications for Bicentennial commemorative items now being manufactured under license from the ARBA.

Membership in various Bicentennial Alliances sponsored by the ARBA was also growing as the year ended. The number of organizations in Bicentennial Alliances are: Service Alliance - 47, Ethnic-Racial Alliance - 22, Sports Alliance - 19, Hospitality Alliance - 8, and the just announced Business Alliance - 4.
