COO Students Learn While They Work

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series of articles featuring students involved in the Cooperative Office Occupations program (COO) at Perquimans High School.)

Judie Dail, a senior enrolled in the COO program at PCHS, receives her on-the-job training and experience at the Perquimans Schools Central Office. She works under the supervision of Superintendent C.C. Walters as well as the COO instructor Mrs. Joann Stallings.

Ms. Dail's responsibilities include general office work such as typing and filing. She works daily from 12:30 until 2:30 p.m. at the Central Office. Like the other COO students, Ms. Dail attends the business classes of the COO program during the first half of the day.

Concerning her job at the work station, Ms. Dail said she felt she was getting good experience in the office field and added that her work at the Central Office has increased her office skills. She said she felt the COO program was a very worthwhile experience for anyone planning to go into office work.

Her work supervisor, C.C. Walters, is very complimentary of Ms. Dail's work. He said her work has been competent and that the Central Office personnel enjoy working with her. Walters said he feels Ms. Dail is receiving good experience that will help her with future employment. He added that he believes the COO program is a "real asset to the school and community," and said he has a feeling of pride for the students who have worked in the school system as a result of the COO program.

Ms. Dail is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Dail of Rt. 2, Hertford and is another high school student preparing for a bright future in office occupations.

TV Program To Aid Teachers

Physical education teachers and coaches in Perquimans County Schools will have an opportunity to learn about treatment of athletic injuries on educational TV this year.

Beginning March 8 half-hour programs will be aired Monday through Friday from 8-8:30 a.m. for six consecutive weeks on all UNC-TV channels. With approval of the local superintendent, a teacher may receive 1.5 credit hours for certification renewal.

Leading sports medicine physicians from Bowman Gray, Duke and UNC Schools of Medicine as well as private physicians from across the state will be involved in providing the course instruction.

The program is sponsored by the Division of Sports Medicine of the Department of Public Instruction.

Teachers interested in registering for the course should write the Sports Medicine Division, TV Course, 432 Education Building, Raleigh, N.C. 27611.

UNC-TV stations received in the State include: WUNC-TV in Chapel Hill; WUND-TV in Columbia; WUNE-TV in Linville; WUNK-TV in Greenville; WUNF-TV in Asheville; WUNG-TV in Concord; WUNJ-TV in Wilmington; and WUNL-TV in Winston-Salem.

HERE WE COME

"California, Here We Come," could well be the theme song of 4-H members in Rockingham County.

The youngsters are planning a summer exchange trip with a county in California, explains Jane Stuart, home economics extension agent.

Leaders and members have been active cooking Brunswick Stews to sell to make money for their airfare, the agent adds.

Pride in Perdue.

it means a lot to the Whites.

Why Chickens?

Reynold White's reply was "In December of '74 I had a heart attack. The doctor told me no more hard work. I was in the logging and sawmill business...and that's hard work. I sold my business. For about a year I didn't really do anything. I needed something to occupy my time; and earn money too. All along, I had been hearing about Perdue. By this time, they had made a lot of investments in the area. I decided they were gonna stick. I talked to my doctor. He gave me the go ahead so I built my first Perdue chicken house. Now I have two."

Think about it!

Here's how the responsibilities are broken down:

The Whites

1. Provide labor.
2. Housing and equipment.
3. Provide electricity.
4. Cleanout.
5. Management.
6. Taxes.
7. Insurance.

Perdue

1. Furnish chicks.
2. Furnish feed.
3. Furnish fuel.
4. Furnish shavings.
5. Vaccinations and medication.
6. Broiler supervisor.
7. Catching and hauling of birds.

The Reynold White family of Askewville, N.C. has done all of these things. They were the top grower on their program on their first flock. They have pride in Perdue and they like to see their Perdue and eggs guaranteed. For more information call collect 704-291-1111.
