Special Summer Feeding Program Being Discussed

The Economic Improvement Council, Inc. is negotiating with the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction, School Food Service Division, for sponsorship of a special summer feeding program for youth of Camden, Chowan, Pasquotank, and Perquimans counties.

While the program allows for all categories of economic participation and for participants from areas having a high concentration of working mothers, EIC will focus only on youth through age 18 from low-income families and youth from areas having a high level of low-income working mothers. The features of a cold boxed Grade "A" lunch will serve to enhance and support organized summer youth programs which basically will be of a recreational nature. Plans are to utilize a catering service to provide these lunches within each of the four counties. Such services must insure freshness of lunch deliveries, balanced lunch menus, etc.

Additional information regarding this proposed project will be available through the EIC, Inc., Elizabeth City office by phoning 335-5493.

Service...Part of Perdue's Program

In the days before integrated production, poultry producers were pretty much on their own. They bought their chicks from one dealer, feed from another and took a chance on selling their own chickens in the marketplace. In the past twenty-five years, chicken production has developed from a one-man operation to a vast agri-business. Perdue, an integrated poultry company, furnishes the contract producer with chicks and feed. They also furnish litter, medication, fuel, a broiler serviceman and catching and hauling of birds. These services make broiler production much easier. They also enable a producer to care for more chickens. The individual producer no longer has to worry with fluctuating market prices. Because he has a written guarantee, current market price cannot affect his income. Perdue is willing to give you the same services and a written guarantee on your income.
