Receives Grant Approval

Pat Harrell, assistant superintendent of Per-quimans County Schools, has announced approval of alocal grant application to implement a new reading program.

The Reading Exemplary
Program from Salt Lake City, Utah will be implemented in Perquimans Schools next year, with a $10,000 Title IV-C Adapter Grant.

The grant proposal was made following a visit last spring of a five-member local team to Rock Hill for training. The teachersreturned excited and en-thusiastic about the exemplary reading program-with hopes of initiating the program locally.

Thirteen local teachers will attend a one-week train-ing institute to be held jointly with Currituck County teachers in Elizabeth City this summer to utilize the teaching methods and techniques of the Salt Lake City project. Teacher behavior is a major focus of the project. Heading the training session beginning July 26 will be Dr. Ethna Reed and a staff member from the Salt Lake City pro-

To Attend Workshop

MURFREESBORO -Betty Jones, Terri Copeland, and Venita Vaughan of Perquimans County High School have pre-registered as participants in the Student Council and Club Officers Workshop at Chowan Col-lege June 27-30. The workshop is sponsored by members of the Student Development staff of Chowan College. Clayton Lewis, dean of students, will coordinate workshop activities.

'The workshop deals directly with practical leadership skills," said Almond, faculty sponsor of the Student Council of Albemarle High School will serve as a resource person.

Time has been planned for recreation and sharing ideas. Communications, feature writing, news writing, projects, goal set-ting, parlimentary procedure, public speaking and problem solving are some of the topics discussed, according to Lewis.

Most materials used in the workshop are published by The National Association of Secondary School Principals. "Our objective is to expose participants to as many ideas and practical situations for as little expense as possible," con-

County Districts Are Explained

In view of the upcoming Aug. 17 primary elec-tion, many questions have been raised concerning the division of the county in districts for seats on the Perquimans County Board of Commis-

In an interview with William L. (Buddy) Tilley, chairman of the local Board of Elections. these divisions were explained.

Perquimans County is divided into three districts. The townships of Bethel and Hertford comprise district one; Parkville and Belvidere combined make up district two; and the township of New Hope is three.

There are five seats on the Board of County Commissioners, each commissioner is elected for a four-year term. Two representatives come from district one; two come from district two; and there is one representative commissioner from district three.

According to Tilley, these districts were set up several years ago due to a federal guideline passed down to the local counties. He said, "The county did not have the option." According to this guideline, the districts were set up so that representation on the Board of Commissioners is based on population. The district divisions are based on the total populations of the five townships, not on the number of registered

Another point which has seemed to be confusing to the local voters concerns who will hold the seats from a district made up of two townships. Tilley explained that in the districts made up of two townships, two commissioners come from that district. It does not matter where they live. For example, in district one which is made up of Bethel and Hertford, both commissioners can live in Hertford or both could live in Bethel. It is not set up so that one commissioner must come from Hertford and one from Bethel.

For the one commissioner seat for district one (Hertford and Bethel), there are four candidates running. These include incumbent Lester H. Simpson, John H. London, Joe Spruill, and Jean P. Winslow. For the two seats from district two (Parkville and Belvidere), five candidates have filed including incumbent Ellis Winslow, Joe Nowell, Billy Pierce, Waldo Winslow, and Wayne

For the Perquimans County Board of Education, the election differs with one member being selected from each township. For the upcoming election, the seats from Bethel and Hertford are up. For the school board seat from Bethel Township, incumbent Emmett' Long is up for reelection and is unopposed. For the seat from Hertford on the school board, three newcomers are in the race including George W. Cooper, Dewey S. Newby and Preston Stevenson. The Parkville seat on the school board will be held by either incumbent George Baker or newcomer Clifford P. Towe.

WINTON — While June 14 meant Flag Day across the country, that date was also significant to the people of Northeastern North Carolina. It marked the dedication of a 3,800-acre gift of wooded swampland, located in Gates County, to be used as an outdoor environmental education center. The land donation was made by Union Camp Corporation, The Nature Conservancy, the Governor of North Carolina, The University of North Carolina, The N.C. Forestry Foundation, The N.C. Division of Natural & Economic Resources and the Alliance for Progress Inc. of which Perquimans County is a representative member. Alliance for Progress Inc. was host to the tour and dedication which took place in Hertford and Gates Counties from 9:45 a.m. until 2

The schedule included the arrival of Gov. James Holshouser and guests at the Roberts Jernigan Farm near Harrellsville at 10 a.m. a drive to docking facilities on the Chowan River and a river tour on Union Camp tugs.

Dedication messages were given by Governor Holshouser who said, "This donation will help protect and preserve areas of North Carolina and will be a tremendous benefit to our citizens;" Patrick Noonan, president of the Nature Conservancy; and Alexander Calder Jr., chairman and chief executive of Union

Camp. Also attending were Dr. Eric Elwood, representing the North Carolina Forestry Foundation, and Dr. William Friday, president of the University of North Carolina.

Those attending the dedication ceremony and tour from Perquimans County included Pat Har-rell, C.C. Walters, R.S. Monds, and Jessie Parker Perry. The donated site contains an estuary, two backwater creeks, an animal community and different soil types. The key to understanding the environment is education." Gov. Holshouser said,' "And this donation will provide the means to study nature. This will benefit the state and the na-

New School Programs

Perquimans County Schools are among the plans for the 1976-77 school year.

One of the new additions will be a Middle Grade Occupations Program headed by Paul Gregory who taught at Hertford Grammar School this past year. According to school officials, Gregory is "well qualified" having a background in business. He is also currently working for certification as a Middle Grades Occupational Teacher.

The program will concentrate on serving eighth graders at Perquimans

Two new programs for Union School, where beginning next year, all county 8th grade students will be attending.

The program will offer several cluster areas giving students an opportunity for experience in Business and Office Practices, Construction, Personal and Professional Service, and Manufacturing and Marketing. Students in the occupations program will have a minimum of 90 hours of occupational experience during the school year. A large room at Union School has been renovated and equipped to accommodate the new Middle Grades Occupations Program.

The other addition recently announced is a new Gifted Talented program for grades 4-6 to be initiated next year.

Brenda Terranova will serve as the itenerate resource teacher working with those students meeting the State's gifted-talented criteria. She will be working in both Hertford Grammar and Perquimans Union Schools.
