

Special Program To Be Aired

On October 19 at 8 p.m. the UNC-TV Network will air THE PUZZLE CHILDREN, a special program on learning disabilities hosted by Julie Andrews and Bill Bixby. The purpose of the program is to inform the public about what learning disabilities are, what they are not, and to motivate viewers to seek professional help if they think their child might be learning-disabled.

This hour special has been carefully developed with the assistance of leading professionals in the field of learning disabilities, including: Nathan Flax, O.D., clinical professor at the State College of Optometry, State University of New York; Floyd Hudson, Ph.D., president of the Division of Children with Learning Disabilities of the Council for Exceptional Children (CEC); Doris Johnson, Ph.D., professor of Learning Disabilities at Northwestern University; Samuel Kirk, Ph.D., professor of Special Education at the University of Arizona; Helmer Myklebust, Ph.D.; Sylvia O. Richardson, M.D., assistant director of Programs for Learning Disabilities, University Affiliated Center for Developmental Disorders, Cincinnati; Eli Tash, president of the Association for Children with Learning Disabilities (ACLD). Special consultants included: Charles Mangel, co-author of Something's Wrong with My Child: A Parents' Book About Children with Learning Disabilities; and Naomi Zigmond, Ph.D., associate professor of Learning Disabilities at the University of Pittsburgh. Immediately following THE PUZZLE CHILDREN, the Network will air WHO

TO TURN TO, a program specifically designed to provide information on the resources available in North Carolina to combat learning disabilities.

To Attend Conference

Pat Harrell, Superintendent of Perquimans County Schools, and Dr. Parker Chesson, President of College of the Albemarle, will be among those attending a State Conference for community college presidents and superintendents being held Oct. 18-19 in Southern Pines, N.C.

The purpose of the conference is for the two groups to meet and discuss cooperative efforts which can be initiated in local communities. Some of the topics to be discussed include cooperative staff activities, sharing of facilities and joint funding. This meeting will be emphasizing some of the ideas of community education and is a beginning attempt for public schools and community colleges to effectively and cooperatively combine their education efforts.

NO INJURY — The tractor trailer log truck pictured above overturned on Rural Road 1001 about seven miles east of Belvidere at 4:30 p.m. Monday afternoon. The driver of the truck, Edward Ryan Bissett Jr. of 1326 Planters Drive in Suffolk, Va., was not injured in the accident. He was traveling around a sharp curve when he ran off the road on the right and overturned. Estimated damage to the truck was $8,000. No charges were made. Investigating the accident was Trooper C.H. Mims. (Ward photo)

NATURE'S MISTAKE — When a sow belonging to the Joseph E. Harrell family of Rt. 2, Edenton delivered 11 pigs early Monday morning, one of nature's mistakes was included in the litter. Glenn Harrell, who farms with his father in Perquimans County, is pictured above showing one of the pigs. This pig was born with two heads, four eyes and three ears. The small pig lived about 24 hours which is considered unusual by local farm agent Richard Bryant who said if something of this sort does occur, the animal is usually born dead or only survives two to three hours: All of the other pigs in the litter were normal. Young Harrell plans to preserve this unusual specimen in formaldehyde. (Newbern photo)

NTE To Be Given

The National Teacher Examination (NTE) is scheduled to be given at Elizabeth City State University on November 13. Scores from the examination are used by many states for certification of teachers, by many schools for selection and identification of leadership qualities, and by many colleges as part of their graduation requirements. Education Testing Service, which prepares and administers the tests, indicated that the tests are designed to measure knowledge gained from professional and general education and in 27 other subject-related fields.

Information describing registration procedures and containing registration forms may be obtained from the university counseling center (335-0551 ext. 242), or directly from the National Teacher Examination, Educational Testing Service, Box 911, Princeton, N.J. 08540.

There are all types of PERSONAL SERVICE

That a Congressman can render such as

Saving The Taxpayers MONEY

Read what nationally syndicated Columnist Jack Anderson had to say in his column about Congressman Walter B. Jones a few months ago:

"HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES: Most Members of Congress try to beef up their staffs at the taxpayers' expense, BUT Rep. Walter B. Jones, D-N.C., a hard-working, nine year House veteran, has turned back $413,507 in his clerk-hire pay to the U.S. Treasury. With the other extras that go along with Capitol Hill jobs, he has saved the Taxpayers well over $500,000."

Let's keep this effective PERSONAL SERVICE in Washington —vote for—
