risen Lord. Zestfully they rehearsed their experience with Christ on the road to and in Emmaus, adding to the chorus of gratitude that the Saviour had risen from the dead.

As Christians, let us ever be grateful for the wonderful privilege of walking with the Lord Jesus Christ, our Saviour, in intimate fellowship.

For Your Information

Dear friends,

The private funeral, with minimal publicity, proves to have at least one unnerving side effect. For months thereafter, phone calls and letters continue to arrive for the deceased, due to public unawareness that the death has occurred. This is a continuing emotional strain on the survivors.

Sunday School Lesson

Two disciples had gone from Emmaus to Jerusalem, about seven and one-half miles, to the feast of the Passover. While they were in Jerusalem Christ was crucified. They never expected to see Christ again. As they started home, they could think of nothing except the greatness of their former hope and the bitterness of their present state.

Luke 24:13-16 As the disciples walked wearily along the road, a Stranger overtook them and listened to their conversation. At length He asked, "What are the words that ye are exchanging with one another as ye walk?" Cleopas inquired if He had been dwelling in Jerusalem and had not heard about the things which had taken place there during the last few days. He replied, "What things?" The disciples answered by telling Him about Jesus of Nazareth, the fate which had befallen Him, and their own disappointment. Beginning with the writings of Moses and continuing through the prophets, the Stranger expounded the Scriptures. Their hearts were warmed strangely, but before He had finished they had arrived at Emmaus.

The disciples were so completely fascinated by His talk that they did not want Him to go farther. They said, "Abide with us; for it is toward evening, and the day is far spent." The Stranger never refused hospitality, although it was refused Him on different occasions. He never refused the house of any man, when invited properly.

No sooner had He entered the home until He changed from guest to host. At the evening meal, "He took bread and blessed it and brake and gave to them." Instantly they recognized Him as the Lord Jesus Christ and immediately He vanished. He had convinced them that He had risen from the dead and had given them the hope and inspiration. They possessed a joy they had never known. Their recognition of Christ alive from the dead so revived and thrilled them that they immediately departed for Jerusalem to bring to the other disciples the good news that they had seen and heard the Lord.

The secret of the burning hearts of those disciples was personal, intimate, and vital fellowship with the living Christ. He opened to them the treasures of the Scriptures. Nobody ever expounded the Scriptures as Christ did to those two heavy-hearted disciples, changing their ignorance into knowledge, their doubt into faith, and their despondency into hope. Note that it was when Christ talked to them that their hearts were aflame and not while they were doing the talking. Certainly one of the greatest needs of Christians is hearts that are aflame for Christ.

When they arrived in Jerusalem, they readily found the eleven disciples already excited that Peter had seen the
