Good Friends; Good Food

RALEIGH — Sunny summer weather and a cool breeze provided the perfect setting when over 1,000 people congregated here Saturday for an afternoon picnic on the lawn of the Governor's Mansion.

The picnic was the third in a series being held to recognize the people in each legislative district who assisted in the Jim Hunt for Governor campaign. Saturday's gathering included key Hunt people from North Carolina Districts 1 and 2.

In a very informal setting, Governor and Mrs. Hunt received visitors on the front porch of the mansion. After greeting the Governor, the visitors then gathered on the mansion lawn to enjoy pork barbecue, barbecued chicken, cole slaw, Brunswick stew, corn sticks and the traditional picnic topper, watermelon. Two country music bands provided afternoon entertainment while the guests chatted and renewed old acquaintances.

As the afternoon grew into early evening, the Governor spoke briefly from a side porch thanking all his friends for their past support and attendance at the day's events. He then walked to the backyard for some Saturday relaxation, a game of horseshoes.

THANK YOU

I would like to thank my friends and family for the many acts of kindness shown me during my long stay in the Albemarle Hospital, and since my return home.

For the many prayers rendered, the beautiful cards, flowers, and visits. For all of these I am so grateful.

May God Bless each of you.

Pauline Perry
