

Winslow joins extension staff

Stan Winslow of Perquimans County has joined the staff of the Lincoln County Agricultural Extension Service where he will serve as an assistant agent in charge of field and forage crops.

Born and raised on a farm, Winslow says he has been close to agriculture all of his life. "Since I've always been associated with farming it seems like the natural thing to continue with," he said.

Graduating this year from North Carolina State University, Winslow received a B.S. degree in agronomy. While at State, he was a member of the Delta Upsilon Fraternity.

Winslow is a graduate of Perquimans High School where he was a member of the Beta Club and president of the Future Farmers of America Club.

Preparing for a career in agricultural extension work, Winslow served as a trainee with the Bladen County Extension Service last summer.

Winslow is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Winslow of Rt. 1, Belvidere.

ENJOYING HER WORK — Mrs. Kay Tice, owner-operator of Kay's Glamour Shop of Hertford, portrays the picture of someone truly enjoying her work as she adds the finishing touches to customer, Mrs. Ruth Sutton.

For one person, Valentine's Day was very special this year. While the usual deluge of cards, gifts, candy and flowers were probably in existence, Mrs. Kay Tice of Hertford, offered something special to the public that day. It marked the opening of Kay's Glamour Shop located adjacent to her home on Sunset Drive.

Mrs. Tice, who is sole operator, is a licensed cosmetologist who offers a variety of talents to customers. In addition to hair styling, she is also trained in skin and nail care.

Along with her shop, she is self-employed as a Mary Kay cosmetic consultant, an area she has been involved in for the past seven years. Her cosmetology license dates back 12 years. She pointed out that her training in the art of cosmetics through Mary Kay, has helped in her newest venture. She has had experience giving cosmetic training classes in many local towns. All this background and her train-

New comparison of sunscreen products
Most sun-worshippers don't consider the damage sun can do to a winter-whitened body. Yet, it's a serious matter. Burns from initial sun-time exposures, wrinkling due to repeated over-exposures, photosensitivity to medications, and an epidemic number of skin cancer cases should warn all to be careful with the sun. But how do you know how much protection your skin-type needs, or which product will give you the best protection? Ask your pharmacist. He has the information you'll need. In fact, most pharmacies should soon be displaying a Product Chart, produced by the FDA, which will help you compare all sunscreen products. Look for it.

Safety school

The 28th annual regional school on safety and health in industry, co-sponsored by the N.C. Department of Labor, will be held in Wilmington, N.C. on Aug. 10-11, according to an announcement recently from Labor Commissioner John C. Brooks.

Conducted annually since 1951 in cooperation with the National Safety Council and the Greater Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, the school is an in-depth training session aimed at industrial management, supervisors and employees who are responsible for safety and health in their plants. All sessions will be at the Wilmington Hilton, 301 N. Water St., (919) 763-9881.

Commissioner Brooks noted that last year's school was attended by more than 200 registrants from 62 North Carolina towns and cities, and the states of Delaware, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Texas and Wisconsin, as well as the District of Columbia and Ontario, Canada. Program theme for this year's school will be "Confined Space Safety and Health Hazards."
