Diabetes foundation schedules meeting

The Northeastern North Carolina Chapter of the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation invites you to participate in their program to be held Monday night, January 17th, at First Christian Church, located on Parsonage Street in Elizabeth City, at 7:30.

The topic - The Psychological

Aspects of Diabetes - will be presented by members of the Pasquotank District Health Department. Following the film, "Diabetes: Focus on Feelings", Sylvia C. Matthews, registered dietitian and public health nutritionist; Dr. Greg Michaels, chief clinical psychologist of the Developmental Evaluation Center; Janis Pullium and Jill Copeland, health educators; and Pam Cobb, president of the local JDF chapter will lead a panel discussion exploring the feelings of diabetics and their families and friends dealing with the anger, frustration, denial, fear, and acceptance of diabetes.

NCNB will sponsor $100,000 sweepstakes

North Carolina National Bank will sponsor a $100,000 sweepstakes during the month of January - believed to be the first such promotion by a bank in the U.S.

The "NCNB New Banking Sweepstakes" will run throughout the month of January, with the winners announced in Mid-February, according to A. Donald Ross III, NCNB vice president and director of advertising and sales promotion.

"January will be a benchmark in the history of our bank's services," said Ross. "We'll be offering two new money market accounts, discount stock brokerage services and encouraging people to take advantage of Individual Retirement Accounts.

"By sponsoring a sweepstakes, we'll be using a promotional campaign just as innovative as the ser-VICES we're offering," he said.

Under the terms of the sweepstakes, NCNB customers will receive an entry in the sweepstakes each time they open an NCNB Money Investment Account, NCNB Money Market Checking Account, discount stock brokerage account, or for opening or depositing to an Individual Retirement Account.

An individual customer could receive up to four separate sweepstakes entries.

In addition, sweepstakes regulations provide that anyone can enter the sweepstakes, whether they sign-up for bank services or not.

Sweepstakes entries can be made through offices of NCNB and through offices of Bank of North Carolina, which were recently merged with NCNB, such as their local bank located in Harris Shopping Center.

The grand prize will be $25,000 in cash. Other prizes include five second place prizes of $10,000 each and 25 third place prizes of $1,000 each.

"To the best of our knowledge, it's unprecedented for a bank to sponsor a sweepstakes of this kind," Ross said. "From our research, we couldn't find another bank that has sponsored a promotion similar to this one."

The sweepstakes will be supported by television and newspaper advertising and by direct mail. The first ads appeared on Monday, January 3.

Recent legislative changes allow NCNB to offer new forms of money market accounts, the NCNB Money Market Investment Account and the NCNB Money Market Checking Account, both of which provide high yields along with ready funds access.

Financial aid still available for students

Some of the best things in life may be free. But for college or training after high school, students will need money.

According to James S. Midgette, Counselor at Perquimans High School, in spite of Reaganomic cut backs there's still help in the form of financial aid - from the federal and state governments, from colleges, and from a wide variety of special programs.

The good news is that there's more than $16 billion available to help students attend college during the academic year 1983-84.

The bad news is that it's still not enough to meet fully the need of all the students who could use some help; and the funds could get even higher next year.

The really important news is that students can improve their chances of getting the financial aid they need to attend the colleges they like by learning about financial aid opportunities and planning ahead now.

To offset and dispel fears that students and parents are presently obsessed with, the guidance department at Perquimans High will sponsor a financial aid and admissions workshop, Thursday, January 20, 1983 at 7:30 P.M. The workshop will be conducted by officials from College of The Albemarle and Elizabeth City State University. High school students and their parents are asked to come and learn more about ways and means of furthering education beyond high school.

The public is invited to attend.

Suspect arrested for break-in after chase

A Hertford man has been arrested and charged with felonious breaking and entering in the January 7 break in of Albemarle Tire Service.

Charlie Fleetwood Wilson of 319 Stokes Drive was placed in Albemarle District Jail in Elizabeth City under $2,000 bond where he is awaiting a probable cause hearing.

Patrolman M.G. Jasielum of the Hertford Police Department responded to a call around 7 p.m. from a pedestrian who was walking by the area and heard glass breaking.

Officer Jasielum found a suspect in the Albemarle Tire Service building and when he entered the building the suspect jumped through a plate glass window. The suspect, according to police reports, then fled to the Cedarwood Cemetery on King Street.

Assisted by Walter L. House of the State Bureau of Investigation and Captain R.K. Morris of the Hertford Police Department, Jasielum pursued the suspect on foot. He was apprehended behind a residence on Gum Street by Morris and House.

Wilson's probable cause hearing has been scheduled for the January 26 session of the Perquimans County Criminal District Court.
