Library Week slated

This is National Library Week and the Perquimans County Library wants to remind you that the success you achieve depends on you.

There's no secret technique that makes people successful. In fact, the best athletes, business leaders, student achievers and people in power have one thing in common — that's knowledge.

We're fortunate that we have an equal opportunity to obtain all the knowledge we want and need through the resources at the library.

The library is not just filled with books. It's filled with ideas, advice and adventure.

Think of the library when you're training in sports, when you're working on a hobby, when you need help with a problem. If you want to get ahead, remember, "Knowledge is Real Power." And the library has all the knowledge you want. So use the library.

FINANCIAL PLANNING SHARED SUPPORT

(It May Be Tax Deductible)

If you provide over half of the total support of a dependent parent who has less than $1,000 of taxable income, you are entitled to take an exemption for him on your tax return.

In some families, brothers and sisters share in supporting an elderly parent. Because no one of them provides over half of the total support for the parent, they may feel that no one is entitled to the dependency exemption on his tax return. However, if each of them contributes more than 10% of the parent's support and their contributions taken together provide over half of the support for the year, one of them is entitled to the exemption if a multiple support agreement is signed. IRS Form 2120 requires all of the contributors to agree that only one of them will take the exemption.

The dependency exemption can be passed around from one year to the next. The tax situations of everyone involved should be considered in order to get the best tax break. Normally, the individual in the highest tax bracket would get the best deduction for the dependency exemption. However, the individual claiming the parent under a multiple support agreement can include those medical expenses of the parent that he paid for in addition to his own medical expenses. The best tax break might then be to give the dependency exemption to a lower bracket brother or sister whose adjusted gross income will be low enough to enable him to utilize the medical expense deduction.

Multiple support agreements are not limited to parents. Your tax advisor should be consulted for other situations that apply and to assure that the best tax benefits are obtained for the entire family.
