Cartwright-Sanders sentenced for arson

By JANE WILLIAMS

Douglas "Luckie" Cartwright and Larry Wayne Sanders each received a light sentence last week during Pasquotank County Superior Court for their involvement in two cases involving arson, and on other charges.

Cartwright, age 36 of Hertford, was sentenced to six months in Albemarle District Jail after a plea-bargaining agreement in which he pled guilty to charges of fraudulently burning an uninhabited building in Chowan County, burning an uninhabited dwelling in Perquimans County and illegal trafficking of cocaine.

Sanders, age 35, was sentenced to five months in Albemarle District Jail stemming for his involvement in the burning of the Perquimans County house, owned by Bonnie D. White. He also received a five year suspended sentence and five years supervised probation for his part in the Chowan County burning.

Testimony was given by both Cartwright and Sanders against James D. Singletary, of Hertford, Mitchell Duke Ivey, and Peter Rosenthal as part of a plea-bargain arrangement with the state in connection with the Chowan County burning of a house owned by Haymakin International.

Testimony given during the Singletary trial resulted in the state gaining a conviction against Singletary for conspiracy to burn and insurance fraud.

Singletary was sentenced last March during Chowan County Superior Court to three years in prison. The case is on appeal.

Ivey was also convicted, and sentenced to four years, suspended, and five years supervised probation in connection with the fire.

Rosenthal pled no-contest in Dare County Superior Court last month to charges against him, and was given a one year suspended sentence, one year unsupervised probation and a $10,000 fine. He was also ordered not to harass or threaten Cartwright, Sanders or Ivey.

Testimony given in the Perquimans County case, led to the conviction of Bonnie D. White for conspiracy to burn and burning an uninhabited dwelling. White was sentenced to five years on the burning charge and six months on the conspiracy charge, to run concurrently. The case is on appeal.

Former N.C. Governor Terry Sanford presented Lucille Winslow, of Hertford, with the Roanoke Island Historical Association Distinguished Service Award at last Friday's opening of "The Lost Colony."

Mrs. Winslow was honored for her long service to the RIHA and Paul Green's drama, going back to her work with the WPA in the 1930's which helped bring "The Lost Colony" into being.

Winslow wins distinguished service award

By JANE WILLIAMS

Lucille Winslow, of Hertford, was presented with the Roanoke Island Historical Association's Distinguished Service Award on Friday night prior to the opening night performance of "The Lost Colony."

Mrs. Winslow, the wife of the late J. Emmett Winslow, currently serves as the Vice-Chairman of the Roanoke Island Historical Association, which oversees among other projects the summer production of "The Lost Colony."

Prior to holding the office of Vice-Chairman, Mrs. Winslow served as Chairman for the association for three years.

The award was presented to Mrs. Winslow by former North Carolina Governor Terry Sanford.

Sanford told the group that "the only reason that Lucille had not been presented with the award before now, is that she has always been on the committee to select the recipient."

According to Lynn Sumner, Public Relations Director for "The Lost Colony," Mrs. Winslow has always been a staunch supporter, and activist, rather than simply a moral supporter, of all "Lost Colony" activities, including the planned arts center.

Mrs. Winslow's record of service does not restrict itself to Roanoke Island. In addition to working on numerous projects in her own community, she currently serves as the Chairman of the Liaison Subcommittee of America's Four Hundredth Anniversary Committee and is the project coordinator for the Historic Albemarle Tour.

She was one of the organizers of the North Carolina Travel Council, and served two terms as Vice-President of that organization. She is a past president of the north Carolina Hotel Association, a former member of the Edenton Historical Commission, a board member of the Perquimans Restoration Program, a recipient of the Halifax Resolves Award for outstanding accomplishment in the field of historical restoration, and a board member of the North Carolina Arts Council.

Mrs. Winslow began her work with "The Lost Colony" in the 1930's, when she worked with the Works Progress Administration to help create the production.

Water Safety Team provided for the area

The N. C. Wildlife Resources Commission's Water Safety Team for District-One main purpose is to demonstrate how lives are needlessly lost each year in water related accidents and how many of these tragedies could easily be avoided.
