C.O.A. offers tax seminar

Owners of small businesses will have an opportunity to learn more about required recordkeeping and employment tax responsibilities during an evening seminar to be held at College of The Albemarle next week.

The college, through its Small Business Center, is sponsoring the IRS Small Business "Outreach" program. The cost-free workshop will begin at 10 a.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 20 in the lecture auditorium on the COA campus in Elizabeth City.

Lucy Gordon, COA business and industry services office director, said Charles Krantz, an agent in the Greenville Internal Revenue Service taxpayer education office, will conduct the information session.

"Tax deductions and responsibilities change from year to year," Gordon explained. "The IRS has developed its 'outreach' program to increase awareness of these modifications and to provide up-to-date information for area business men and women."

Krantz also will include recent changes in tax laws that affect quarterly estimated tax payments and business tax credits as seminar topics. The final segment of the morning program will be devoted to answering questions from participants.

Hertford Post Office offers "D" stamps

An adequate supply of "D" stamps and other nondenominated items are available at the Hertford post office to help customers make a smooth transition after the February 17th postal rate change.

Postmaster Ricky Wilkinson says that the nondenominated "D" stamps in sheet, coil and booklet formats represent the new 22-cent first-class rate. There are also nondenominated postal cards and plenty of two-cent stamp that, when added to 20-cent stamps, make up the new first-class letter rate.

"Nobody likes to see higher postal rates, but this increase is moderate and justified,"

Postmaster Wilkinson said. "Since the last increase in November 1981, the cost of living in the United States, as measured by the Consumer Price Index, has gone up almost 13 percent. The 22-cent stamp is only a 10 percent rise."

"The nondenominated items are available because because we estimate that stamp inventories in post offices at present will fall short of public demand, and we want to avoid customer inconvenience," he said.

Commemorative stamps, beginning with the Jerome Kern Stamp, and other 22-cent stamps, are expected to replace the "D" stamps by the end of March, the Postmaster said.

Teachers, Take Newspapers Back To School

National Newspaper in Education (NIE) Week is coming March 4-8, 1985. The Newspaper in Education program encourages the use of newspapers for a variety of educational purposes. National NIE Week emphasizes the importance of reading and writing and is a cooperative effort of the International Reading Association and newspapers.

Teachers, use ads, maps, graphs, and schedules to teach reading and math. Show students how to write news stories, editorials, ads, and reviews. Also have them write letters to the editor and use newspapers to update research projects. Ask them to discuss the judgments that are made in interviews and editorials. Most important, have them read daily to develop the habit of reading and to keep well informed.

A special edition of the state's Newspaper in Education newsletter, DATELINE NC, is available free of charge. The newsletter features teaching ideas for use during NIE Week. To receive the newsletter, send the coupon below to the N.C. NIE Foundation. Return the coupon before February 24.
