Senior center plans trip to Wells Theatre

The Perquimans County Recreation Department and Senior Center is sponsoring a trip to the newly restored Wells Theatre, the home of the Virginia Stage Company, on Wednesday, May 20. They will enjoy a matinee performance of Shakespeare's last comedy, "The Tempest", a mysterious story of shipwrecks and islands, monsters, and spirits, political intrigue and personal forgiveness. It is a play celebrating all that is positive and possible in the human spirit. The cost of the trip is $10 per person which includes ticket and bus transportation. The bus will depart from the Recreation Department at 10:30 a.m. A stop will be made at Morrison's for lunch and then on to enjoy the play which begins at 2 p.m. They will return home by 6 p.m. (They will pick up passengers in Elizabeth City, if necessary).

To reserve your seat or for more information contact Patti White at 426-5695 or 426-5404. This trip is made possible by the North Carolina Arts Council.

Phone directory to be completed soon

ELIZABETH CITY, NC—Preparation of forthcoming Albemarle area telephone directory is nearly completed. T.F. Daniels, District Commercial Manager for Caroline Telephone, said today that April 24, 1987 is the last day for requesting changes in the new directory.

Telephone customers who wish to change or add directory listings should call the business office promptly.

The directory is scheduled for delivery during June.

Caution urged

With the onset of pleasant weather, North Carolina Power is reminding residents to take extra care in outside activities, such as kite flying and yard work.

Since kites need so much room to maneuver, fly them only in open fields, meadows or parks where they will not become entangled in power lines. If a kite begins to fall toward a power line, release the string immediately.

If the kite becomes caught in a power line, make no attempt to free it. Instead, call the local North Carolina Power office and explain what has happened. Since working with power lines requires special equipment, a qualified service employee will be sent to remove the kite safely.

Also during this time of year, many people will be planting gardens and performing routine yard work. Check for underground electric wires before digging and planting.

Take care that trees will not hit power lines or utility poles. If a tree near a power line needs to be removed, contact your local North Carolina Power office for guidance.

Because all electric power lines are potentially hazardous, keep ladders and tools away from lines during spring cleaning and home improvements.

In addition, a metal television or citizens band radio antenna touching an electric line for even a fraction of a second can be deadly. For this reason, use extreme caution when installing or removing any antenna.

Homes needed

Help break the bonds of international confusion and tension by helping to create a more peaceful world through intercultural understanding. By hosting an international student from Asia, Europe or Latin America, you and your family will not only be acting as ambassadors to the United States, but also creating a bond that will last a lifetime. The invaluable experience of participating as a host family will prove to be most rewarding as you share the joy of these students who eagerly await the opportunity to study here in the United States. These young ambassadors anxiously await the opportunity to learn American values and share a piece of their country's heritage.

The Youth Exchange Service, a nonprofit organization, presents these students, age 15-18, to your home with excellent medical coverage and they are also enrolled in the local high school. The students arrive with their own spending money and a piece of the world. All we ask is that you provide a caring and loving home, just as you would for your own children, with meals and a place to sleep. The tentative arrival for these students is early August, in time for the 1987-88 school year. Participation with the Youth Exchange Service program is tax deductible as well.

YES students are carefully screened, are high achievers in their own countries and, as a reward, wish to broaden their English skills and cultural knowledge by participating in our program. However, without your help they may never realize that dream. Feel proud that you made a difference in striving for world peace. Invite a YES student into your home by contacting: Youth Exchange Service (YES), World Trade Center Bldg., 350 S. Figueroa St. number 257-P, Los Angeles, CA 90071 or phone: 1-800-848-2121.
