Union School highlights

Recently Mr. Phil Barnes had his eighth grade math class prepare a follow-up project that related to the unit on ratio, proportion, percent, and graphs. They were asked to conduct surveys of their choosing and graph their results.

All surveys were very interesting with a variety of topics being selected. Since the month of March was set aside as Drug and Alcohol Awareness Month at Union, one of his students, Denesha Askew, conducted her survey on the feelings and attitudes of her friends and classmates about drugs and some of their ideas as to the causes for the use of drugs and alcohol. Below are the results determined by reactions from 100 people.

Survey A: Why do you think teenagers take drugs?

- a. Good feeling, 10 percent
- b. Problems at home, 11 percent
- c. Peer pressure, 35 percent
- d. Depression, 18 percent
- e. Friends do it, 26 percent

Survey B: Why do you think teenagers run away?

- a. Family problems, 24 percent
- b. Let down by parents, 8 percent
- c. Feel unwanted, 45 percent
- d. Child abuse, 15 percent
- e. Divorce, 8 percent

Survey C: Why do you think teenagers commit suicide (or try)?

- a. Drugs, 18 percent
- b. Solves problems, 31 percent
- c. To get attention, 9 percent
- d. Pressures from home & school, 40 percent
- e. Unite the family, 2 percent

G.E.D. test available

Persons who wish to take General Educational Development (GED) tests to earn their high school equivalency certificates at College of The Albemarle will be able to make appointments for testing, beginning on June 1.

Previously, GED tests were given at 1:30 p.m. on Monday, Thursday, and Friday at the COA Learning Lab, said lab director Martha Newbold.

The recent addition of new programs that are now available at the lab have led to the revision of the GED test schedule, she explained.

Tests will be given either during the day or evening hours. Those who wish to take any of the five-test series should make an appointment by going to the Learning Lab located in B-Building on the main campus, or by calling 335-0821, Extension 268.
