Program held Sat. to honor Hunter

HERTFORD—Saturday may have been one of the few times in his life that Jim "Catfish" Hunter was at a loss for words.

As Charles Woodard spoke Saturday afternoon, on the high school football field, in the warm Perquimans County sun Jimmy began to squirm in his chair as his eyes filled with tears.

Later as he stood in front of some 2,000 people, his friends and neighbors, to express his gratitude for the countywide celebration it was several minutes before he could gain his composure, and thank everyone.

This heart warming scene came at the conclusion of a program during which city and county made presentations to honor the former major league baseball pitcher, and friends shared fond memories of days gone by.

In his thank-you speech to the crowd, Hunter payed tribute to several people including his wife Helen, his parents, Abbott and Lillie Hunter, his brothers and sisters, and God.

"I want to tell everyone that you can't do it all by yourself. Everyone's got to have help," said Hunter.

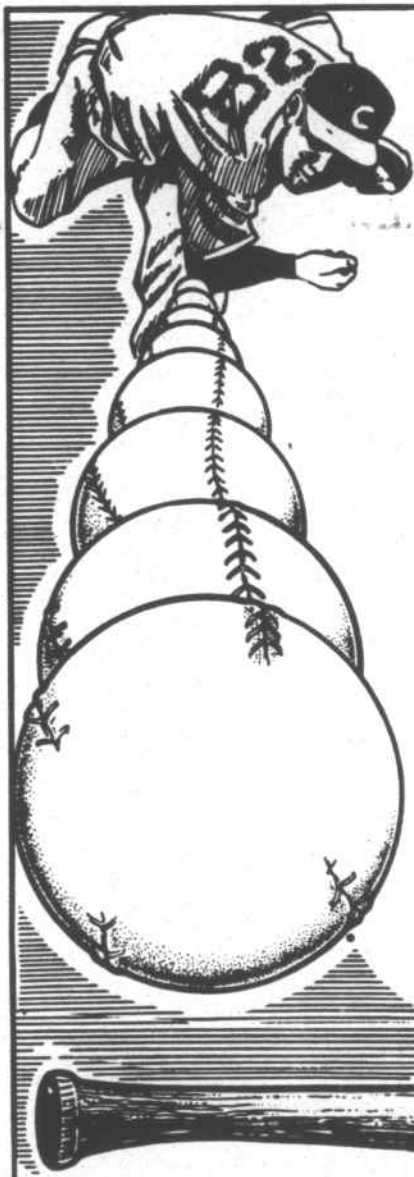

During the program Hunter was presented with a resolution and a proclamation from the county, along with an artist's rendition of a monument which the county had commissioned to be placed on the courthouse green in downtown Hertford. W. W. "Welly" White, chairman of the county commissioners presented Hunter with a picture of the two by six foot monument which was done by Bruce White, Lisa Sawyer, and Deborah Coates of Perquimans County High School. The monument which includes a picture of Hunter, and an inscription which provides highlights of Hunter's career will be made of black granite, and according to White will be placed downtown within the next few weeks.

Mayor Bill Cox of Hertford also announced that School street which runs beside the high school athletic fields has been renamed Jimmy Hunter Drive in honor of Hunter, and presented him with a street sign bearing the street's new name.

In addition to the many presentations by the county and town friends such as Dr. Parker Chesson, Francis Combs, and Charles Woodard reflected on fond memories. Pick up games, make do bats, and growing up in a town where baseball games ranked high on the list of priorities for family outings.

At the conclusion of the program Jimmy was presented with a new 1187 automatic shotgun courtesy of the Remington Fire Arms Company, and guests were invited to share in the free pig pickin, and to stay for the old timers game which brought to a finish the day's activities.
