Perquimans county to host bloodmobile

Perquimans County will host its final Bloodmobile of fiscal year 1986-87 on Tuesday, June 16th, 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the Hertford United Methodist Church. The county goal for Bloodmobile collections for this year is 300 pints. To date 155 pints have been donated at the four Bloodmobiles between September, 1986 and April, 1987. Donations have dropped dramatically in Perquimans County according to Red Cross representative Helen Barnes. She said the average number of donors at Hertford Bloodmobiles has dropped from 70 to 30. The students and staff at Perquimans High School donate more at their Bloodmobile than the entire community does at Hertford United Methodist Church.

Red Cross Bloodmobiles are the only source of blood for 53 hospitals in our area. When donors stay away from Bloodmobiles these hospitals are unable to meet their patients' need for blood. There is already a shortage of O-negative blood in these hospitals and summer has hardly begun.

Most people never think about the possibility that blood might not be available if they should ever need it. It will only be there if people support Red Cross Bloodmobiles. If you are between 17 and 70, weigh at least 110 lbs. and are in general good health, you can probably donate blood. Take an hour and give your gift of life so that it will always be there!

ECU seeks teaching program applicants

GREENVILLE—North Carolina will get 16 new science and math teachers this fall, thanks to a program being offered by East Carolina University's Science-Mathematics Educational Center (SMEC) and Rural Education Institute.

In an effort to eliminate the teacher shortage in North Carolina schools, the Lateral Entry Program was started last year to train college graduates who are interested in becoming certified teachers of science or math in the fundamentals of instruction.

"The program has definitely been successful because we will be certified," says participant Diane Harrington, a Bertie County native. "It has been a tiring, rigorous schedule but very worthwhile."

Candidates are now being sought for the 1987-88 session, according to Katherine W. Hodgin, acting SMEC director. To qualify, individuals must have a college degree in a math or science field with a grade point average of 2.5 or better. In addition, they must pass the National Teachers Exam and be approved by the interview panel.

The program begins on June 24 with a five-week session on the ECU campus. Participants will study the nature of the learner, methods of teaching science and math, and the use of instructional media.

Participants will then be required to spend a full academic year in a public school as a full- or part-time teacher of science or math. Guidance will be provided by mentor teachers and monthly seminars.

The program concludes in the summer of 1988 with enrollment in courses needed to complete certification requirements.

Participants will receive salaries for teaching, but will be expected to pay for tuition and books. "Some of the instructor costs will be paid for by SMEC and REI, thus reducing the expense for those selected for the program," Hodgin said.

Individuals interested in participating in the program should contact Hodgin at the Science-Math Education Center, ECU, Greenville, N.C. 27858-4353, telephone (919) 757-6885, or the School of Education at (919) 757-6051.

Applications must be received by June 16.

Peoples Bank Introduces C.D. Preferred

Ask any stockbroker about investments, and bullish or bearish, he'll probably tell you that the higher the rate of return the greater the risk you take.

It's a fundamental principle for most investors, but not at Peoples Bank. We're thinking ahead with an innovative variable rate Certificate of Deposit that gives our customers the benefit of rising interest rates and protects them against falling rates.

That's why we call it C.D. Preferred. When you purchase a 2, 3, 4 or 5 year C.D. Preferred, with an opening balance of $5,000 or more, you are guaranteed a minimum rate of interest equal to your opening rate. As interest rates fluctuate, your rate can only rise above that base rate. It will never fall below.

Get the rate without the risk. With a C.D. Preferred from Peoples Bank.
