Farm Bureau sets community meeting

Farm leaders from throughout North Carolina who were previously appointed to North Carolina Farm Bureau Commodity Advisory Committees will meet in Raleigh September 3 to begin the Farm Bureau policy development process, according to Billy Williams, president of the Williams County Farm Bureau.

Committee members will meet for the purpose of raising "areas of concern" to be offered as suggested issues for discussion in the Farm Bureau policy development process.

Commodity committees are: aquaculture, cotton, dairy, field crops, flue-cured tobacco, burley tobacco, forestry, fruits and vegetables, ornamentals and shrubs, livestock, peanuts, and poultry.

General committees are: law and order, and natural and economic resources.

Representing the Perquimans County Farm Bureau at the meeting will be Donald Madre, Peanut Committee; Edward Nixon, Cotton Committee; and Billy Williams, Field Crops Committee.

Williams said that after issues are surfaced and discussed by the committees, they are submitted to the individual counties for consideration by resolutions committees prior to the county annual meetings.

Williams pointed out that the Raleigh meeting will begin at 10:00 a.m. with reports on the current agricultural situation and general problem areas that will be confronting agriculture in the future. Committees will later begin their individual discussions.

Williams suggested that Farm Bureau members who have questions that need to be considered, or ideas that may solve current problems, bring them to the attention of local committee members.

"It is through this process," he emphasized, "that members can be assured that Farm Bureau at county, state and national levels will work for well-considered, carefully chosen objectives which the members themselves have initiated, studied, and decided."

Holiday rates reduced

Elizabeth City—Most people look forward to holidays, and Carolina Telephone customers have even more to look forward to on five designated holidays each year. That is when special long distance rates are available.

Since Labor Day is one of the designated holidays, customers this year will be able to make long distance calls at the evening rate all day. The evening rate for calls placed within North Carolina is 25 percent off the full rate, while the evening rate for calls placed outside the state is at a 40 percent discount.

If the calls are made at night after 11 p.m., and before 8 a.m. the next day, the rates are even lower," said T. F. Daniels, District Commercial Manager. "And by placing the calls themselves, customers can avoid the operator service charge."

Daniels said the other designated holidays when the special long distance discount rates apply include Christmas, New Year's Day, July 4th, and Thanksgiving.

The Carolina Telephone spokesman reminded customers that other reduced long distance rate periods are available and that an explanation can be found in Call Guide 10 in each Carolina Telephone directory.
