Nominations sought for awards

A very special award has been established to honor a volunteer for outstanding service toward making North Carolina a more beautiful

In making the announcement, Carl Lowendick, Executive Director, said: "Keep North Carolina Clean & Beautiful takes great pride in sponsoring the Governor and Mrs. Dan K. Moore Award. The purpose of the award is to provide recognition to an individual volunteer who has made an outstanding contribution to the improvement of the visual environment of North Carolina."

The recently established award was named for Mrs. Moore and the late Governor Dan K. Moore for their pioneering effort in beautification which led to the establishment of Keep North Carolina Clean & Beauti-

Staff members pointed out the tremendous value of volunteer effort throughout the State which is an invaluable asset in making North Carolina a more beautiful state and, thus, the need for recognition.

Nominations of volunteers may only be made by organizations and only one state winner will be selected. The winner will be announced at the Annual Meeting of Keep North Carolina Clean & Beautiful and a local reception will be held by KNCCB in honor of the award recipient.

For further information, contact Keep North Carolina Clean & Beautiful, Inc.at 919-834-9869 or write to KNCCB at: 887-A Washington Street, Raleigh, N.C. 27605.

Tips on how to make life easier

HOW TO

A potpourri of simple How To ideas to make life a little easier:

-Rub lemon juice in your hands to get rid of onion, fish or other strong

-Spread charcoal in a shallow box under beds or other areas where musty or undesirable odors are present. -Hang cloves or pine needles in an old stocking to freshen closets.

-Light candles to clear smoke and stale odor of cigarettes or burned

-Boil vinegar on the rangetop to absorb undesirable kitchen odors. -For a spicy holiday atmosphere, simmer cinnamon sticks and other spices in apple cider.

Place a soft sponge on the floorboard of your car to protect the back of your shoe when driving. -Wash your ashtrays-ashes won't cling, odor won't linger; and they can be wiped clean with a paper towel instead of washing. -Turn corduroy articles inside out before washing and drying so lint will not cling. -Wrap children's new crayons with masking tape and there will be less chance of breaking. -Insert paper plates between your fine china to prevent scratching.

ADAPTING TO CONTACT LENSES

Adaptation to contact lenses depends on a number of variables, including the wearer's motivation, his or her adherence to the doctor's instructions, wearing schedule, and the precision of the fit.

Like other changes in your life — switching jobs, quitting smoking, raising a family — using contact lenses is something that you have to be redy for. If you harbor doubts, you're probably better off postponing it for a while, when you are truly ready, it should be a relatively smooth and easy adjustment. While you are doing your part, your optometrist will be doing everything possible to help. During the period of adaptation — up to four weeks with hard contacts but significantly less with soft contacts — the optometrist will monitor your progress. Often, there are minute but important changes in the lenses that must be made. They should be refined until theu conform to the ideal physical, physiological and optical
