1st semester dean's list is announced at Peace

Raleigh—Five Hertford area residents are among 94 students on the Dean's List at Peace College for the fall, 1987, semester.

They are Lori Anne Gard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Gard of Route 3, Hertford; Rhoda Raymond, daughter of Mrs. Irene E. Raymond of 108 E. Hunter's Trail, Elizabeth City, and the late Dr. John W. Raymond; Andrea Gay Spivey and Angela Kay Spivey, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Spivey of Belvidere; and Joni Ann Riddick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert Riddick of Hobbsville.

To be eligible for the Dean's List a student must maintain a grade-point average of 3.3 out of a possible 4.0, receive passing grades in all subjects and carry at least 12 hours of course work.

Miss Angela Spivey is one of 13 Peace students who made all A's, a perfect 4.0. Miss Gard is among 36 Peace students who achieved a grade-point average of 3.7 or higher, an accomplishment placing her on the special Dean's List with Distinction at the school.

Peace is a two-year, liberal arts college for women.

4-H Indian Riders journey to Raleigh

The Indian Riders 4-H Horse Club members journeyed to Raleigh on December 30 and 31, 1987 for an educational adventure. Twelve club members and eight parents made the most enjoyable trip. Our first stop was Kilcastle Farms in Apex, N. C. operated by Norbit Watts who presented a demonstration on driving and training a horse to drive. Mr. Watts, a skilled horse trainer, kept everyone's attention then gave all the 4-Hers a ride. The next stop on the tour was to Apex Veterinary Hospital. Dr. Barbara conducted a tour first through the small animal facility explaining some of the procedures they do for animals. We then moved on to the large animal section. Dr. Barbara showed x-rays on horses leg bones and explained problems and diseases usually associated. She also explained what had been done or was being done to each of the horses in the hospital at that time. We also had the opportunity to observe surgery being performed on a young calf. Dr. Barbara talked and showed us some facts on artificial insemination and embryo transplants. The tour was quite a learning experience. After visiting Crabtree Valley Mall and staying over at the Ramada Inn, we continued our tour on Thursday at the N. C. State College Vet School. Our guide there showed us a slide presentation about the school and explained some of the criteria for entering as a student, some background information on some of it's students and some of what the school has to offer. We went on a tour of the school from classrooms to observation rooms to examination and surgery rooms.

After leaving the Vet School and Raleigh area, we went to Wilson to Jimmy Johnson's farm who also presented a demonstration to the group touching on several topics from conformation of the horse, showmanship, training of horse and rider and proper attire of exhibitor.

The trip was a success for all twenty persons attending. I thank all who support the 4-H Horse program and made this trip possible. These 4-Hers are not all from Perquimans County. There are some from Chowan County, Washington County and Beaufort County also, but they are members of our club in Perquimans. These children are so well mannered and such good listeners, it was a delight to say we all represented Perquimans County.

Griswold is an aerospace ground equipment mechanic.

Partners with youth in need of volunteers

The first and foremost aim of Partners With Youth is to work as a positive force in combating the community problem of juvenile delinquency. When we speak of delinquency, we deal with something left undone, mainly through failure or neglect to do what duty or the law requires. In this sense, juvenile antisocial behavior represents a "going away from" the social standard or a "leaving something undone" in the observance of the same standard.

In general, there are two ways of dealing with the problem: a) negatively through the use of repression and confinement; b) positively by reaching out in some way to the youth involved.

The Partners With Youth operates with a positive approach—the hands of its volunteers are extended in friendship to those youth affected by the court system because of their antisocial behavior. Specifically, the reaching out process entails 1) the referral by the Court Counselor of a youth to the program; 2) the matching of the youth with a volunteer adult according to gender and race.

Volunteers all come out of the same mold in one respect - they all have the same desire to give of themselves wholeheartedly for four hours each week and for an entire year, extending the hands and heart of friendship to "their" youth. Coming out of the same mold however does not imply sameness in every respect.

Valencian bottles, cast from 200 year-old molds, have been the same for 200 years. But let the sun hit them and they take on a beautiful life of their own. So it is with our volunteers - once matched, each friendship takes on a life of its own.

The friendship we speak of is a means towards an end. Means are not justified by ends; rather they must be good and properly designed to achieve-attain the desired effect.

In 1988 just as in past years we are in need of volunteers and we need financial help. Since the program deals with juvenile delinquency on a local level, all our volunteers and 35 percent of our funding must be local.

If you are interested in either of these aspects of the Perquimans-Chowan Partners With Youth program, more information is available - just call 919-482-5939, visit our office on the 2nd floor of the Old Courthouse in Edenton, or write Partners With Youth, P. O. Box 493, Edenton, N. C. 27932.

Our hopes are that 1988 will give us the opportunity of serving our Perquimans and Chowan communities more efficiently through our Governor's One-On-One program, aimed specifically at alleviating the problem of juvenile delinquency in the State.

Bob Etheridge

Etheridge announces candidacy for office

Raleigh—Rep. Bob Etheridge announced his candidacy for the office of State Superintendent of Public Instruction Tuesday.

"I believe the future of North Carolina will be determined by what we do now to improve public schools," Rep. Etheridge said.

"Creating higher paying jobs, breaking the cycle of illiteracy and poverty and improving the quality of life for all citizens are urgent goals for our state," Etheridge added. "The key to achieving these goals is our ability to improve the learning that takes place in the classrooms of North Carolina public schools."

"I am a parent who values education. As a member of the General Assembly for ten years, I have been on the leading edge of the fight for better schools during that period."

"I know what is needed at the local level. During my tenure as Chairman of the Harnett County Board of Commissioners, we launched the most ambitious school building program in the history of the county. Already it has begun to produce results."

"During my tenure in the Legislature I actively supported a number of major initiatives to improve education, including the broad program we call the Basic Education Program."

Etheridge's first public appearance Tuesday began at a breakfast among Harnett County friends and neighbors at Harnett Central High School, one of the county's new schools begun during his term on the Board of Commissioners.

"Because of my experience as a legislator, as a local official, as a businessman and as a parent, I can provide the leadership that is needed in our public schools," Etheridge said.

"I want to provide that leadership."

"Our schools face a period of great challenge." There are a number of issues we must address.

"The at-risk student must be encouraged to stay in school and take advantage of benefits of a high school diploma and the knowledge which comes with it."

"We must reduce the number of intrusions in the classroom which interfere with the learning process between teacher and student."

"We must encourage parents who have not taken a direct interest in their children's school achievements to do so."

"We must address the issue of accountability in a broad way."

"We must focus on excellence and require absolutely the best performance by every education employee in North Carolina."

"And finally, we must provide leadership to find innovative solutions to these and other challenges facing our public schools in the next few years."
