Post 362 held its regular monthly meeting the second Monday night in January.

City Coordinator Roy Hall by Post Commander Phillip Harrel and Edward Wilson the Post Treasurer.

City Basketball Team is tied for second place in the Parks and Recreation League against three strong teams.

The meeting dwelled mostly on the business issues facing the post.

The coordinator would like to thank publicly other concerns who made contributions to help purchase the uniforms. Namely Overmans Insurance, Hastes Hardware, Ned's Gulf, and Community Gas.

For those members of Post 362 who might have forgotten the posts meeting nights, the Post meets at 8 p.m. the second Monday of each month.

One issue was the presentation of a check representing a contribution to the new Hertford City ball club to go toward the purchasing of uniforms for the club.

As this is being written, Hertford

The Post Commander would like to have you there.

E.C.U. student studies dietetics at hospital

Edenton, N.C.—An East Carolina University Dietetics student has begun a 12-week internship at Chowan Hospital, according to Stephanie Nugen, R.D., Food Services Director at the hospital.

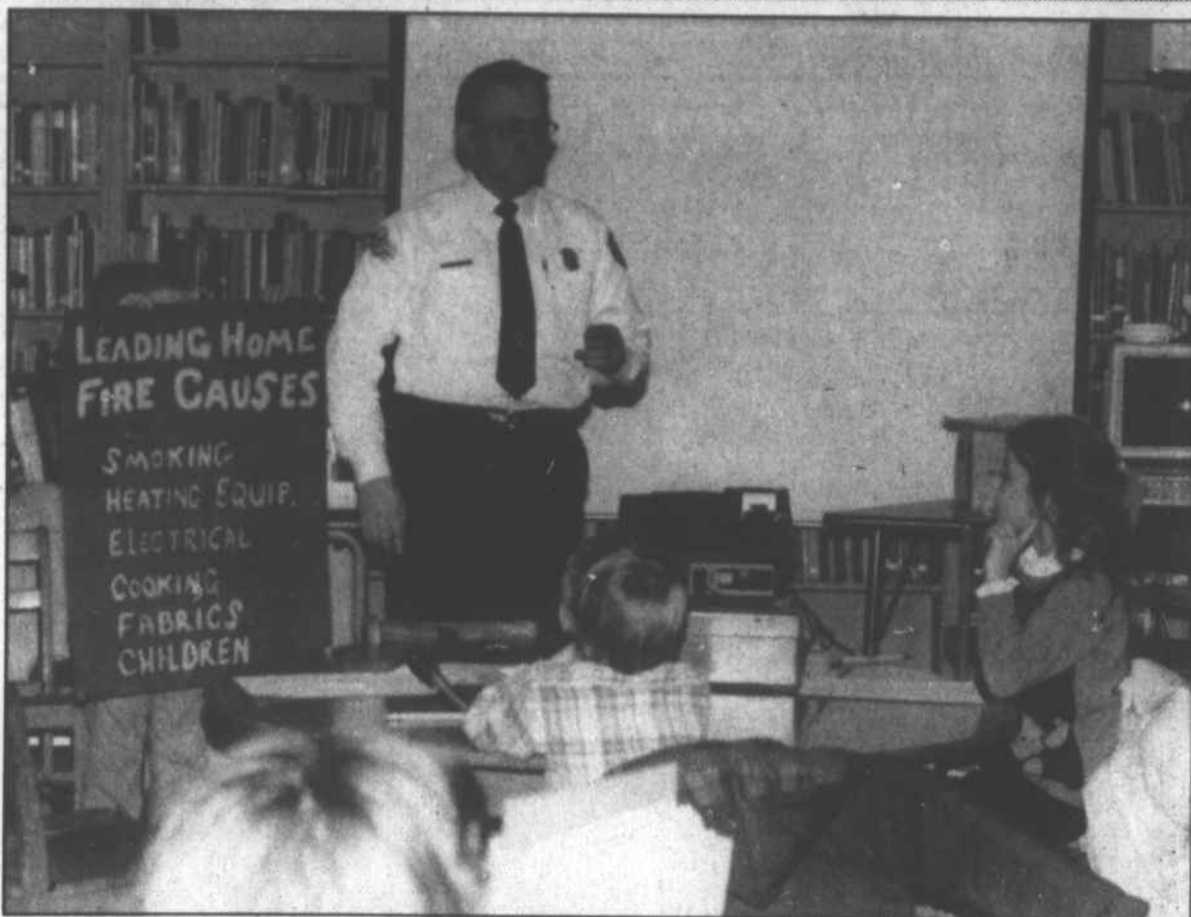

clinical dietetics. In the food service area, she will learn about personnel management and supervision, menu planning, food purchasing, and inventory. As clinical experience, she will take diet histories from patients, offer nutrition education, complete nutritional assessments, and work with charting.

Emily Evans, a 1983 graduate of John A. Holmes High School in Edenton, is a senior at E.C.U. She must complete 378 hours of hands-on experience in a hospital in order to satisfy requirements for a degree this spring in Food, Nutrition, and Institutional Management. Because of her coordinated undergraduate program, she will be eligible to take the registration exam of the American Dietetic Association in October.

After graduation, Evans hopes to receive her Registered Dietitian status and then work as a clinical dietitian in a hospital or other health care setting. She has had summer experience as a dietetic student at Chowan Hospital, where she says she gained a valuable overview of how the hospital operates.

Evans' duties at Chowan fall into two classifications: food service and Evans is the daughter of Robert and Mary Evans of Edenton.

Charlie Skinner, Perquimans County fire marshal, recently visited Hertford Grammar School as part of the ongoing 4-H Fire Safety series which is being sponsored jointly by the Perquimans County Extension service, the local fire departments, and the Perquimans County Rescue Squad. This program is designed to teach basic fire safety practices to area children. The program has been given at both Hertford Grammar School and Perquimans Central School.

Chowan Hospital nurse earns certification

Edenton, N.C.—At a time when infectious diseases such as AIDS are in the forefront of the public's mind, Chowan Hospital's Claire Mills, R.N., B.S.N., C.I.C., has received word that she has been granted national certification in the area of infection control. Mills, who took the examination of the Certification Board of Infection Control in December, becomes the only certified infection control nurse in northeastern North Carolina.

The spread of certain diseases within the community set off alarms in all areas of society, health educators such as Mills have launched aggressive campaigns to educate the public, as well.

Nurse in a hospital ranges from monitoring community and hospital-acquired infections and educating the staff about infectious disease transmission, to being actively involved in assuring the best quality of care for Chowan Hospital patients. Mills, who is also Staff Development Coordinator at Chowan, must renew her infection control certificate in five years.

Mills has been instrumental in developing AIDS education programs for area school PTAs and other civic groups. In the past 18 months, her outreach effort has informed approximately 1,000 people in universal precautions concerning AIDS. In addition, she has visited local day care centers to discuss child-related infections that they need to be alerted to.

Mills points out that hospitals have traditionally worked to minimize the spread of infection within the institution. However, as rising statistics on Mills graduated as a Registered Nurse from Forsyth Memorial Hospital in Winston-Salem in 1974. She earned a Bachelor's Degree in Nursing from East Carolina University in 1986. She has been on the Chowan Hospital staff for 11 years.

Blood pressure clinic to move

Edenton, N.C.—The regular Wednesday afternoon blood pressure screening clinic at Chowan Hospital has been moved back to the lobby, according to hospital officials. The clinic, which had originally been set in the lobby, had been conducted in the Education Wing recently.

If you have a few ferrets you may officially refer to them as a fesnyng.

Anyone wishing to have his or her blood pressure checked free of charge may come to the Chowan Hospital lobby from 1-3 p.m. each Wednesday.
