Koppelman joins dental practice of Dr. Hornthal

Dr. Christ Koppelman has joined the dental practice of Drs. Hornthal and Sieck in Edenton.

A native of Minnesota, Dr. Koppelman attended high school in Cary. He attended Appalachian State University, where he majored in biology and minored in chemistry. He graduated from the UNC School of Dentistry where he was awarded the Board of Governor's dental scholarship. In his final year of dental school, Dr. Koppelman was chosen as the sole representative from UNC to attend a national dental materials seminar in Utah. He is certified by the N.C. Board of Dental Examiners.

Dr. Koppelman's professional experience includes work on the Cherokee Indian Reservation through Indian Health Services, treating patients at Dorothea Dix Hospital in Raleigh, and work with children through the Wake County Health Department. He practiced hospital dentistry in a rotation at UNC Memorial.

Dr. Koppelman's wife, Donna, holds a masters degree in middle school education from UNC-Chapel Hill and teach at Chowan Middle School.

Fowler earns 4-H scholarship

Daniel F. Fowler of Hertford has been selected to receive a $750 educational scholarship from the North Carolina 4-H Development Fund.

Fowler was one of the 16 4-H members from across North Carolina selected to share in $12,000 of scholars money being distributed this year by the Fund. These scholarships are awarded for college study during the 1995-96 academic year.

The swine program is where Fowler locked in for 12 years. He did it all from projects, to showing, to judging and did it well. He is interested in agronomy and hopes to become a chemical salesperson. He will be attending

North Carolina State University this fall. Fowler, 18, is the son of Philip and Carolyn Winslow.

The 4-H Development Fund, headquartered at North Carolina State University, administers the funds, and the Department of 4-H Youth Development at NCSU selects the recipient. The 4-H Development Fund was organized in 1958 by friends and alumni of 4-H to help support certain phases of 4-H work.

This is the 34th year that scholarships have been awarded. Recipients are selected on the basis of their high school records, evidence of college aptitude and 4-H achievement.

4-H scholarship winner Daniel Fowler (center) receives his award from Barbara Allen (left) and Carolyn Register at the awards luncheon during 4-H Congress. Allen is the manager of Corporate Community Relations of Carolina Power & Light as well as the president of North Carolina 4-H Development Fund. Register heads the 4-H Development Fund Scholarship Committee.

Summer reading program at library is success

It's hard to believe that August is almost upon us. We have had wonderful response to our Summer Reading Programs on Wednesday afternoons. The series will conclude on Aug. 9.

Due to budgets not having received final approval yet, we have not been able to order very many books this month. We continue to receive some books that were ordered in the spring and some new popular fiction, but we are presently in a lull. We anticipate ordering lots of new titles in September, though. In the meantime, we hope you will try reading a classic if the bestseller you're waiting for is not available.

Statistics for the fiscal year that ended June 30 reveal that we had a banner year in terms of circulation. Would you believe that we checked out more than 40,000 books in FY95? It's so rewarding to be serving avid readers. The first month of the new fiscal year is off to a good start, too - we circulated 2,347 books in the first 18 days.

The 40,881 books checked out last year compares to 39,960 in FY94 and 29,748 in FY90. The last few years have seen lots of changes in Perquimans County and in the library. Makes you wonder what the future holds in store, doesn't it?

The Perquimans County Library Board will hold their regularly scheduled meeting on Tuesday, Aug. 1 at 7:30 p.m. in the library. In the not-too-distant future lies the art show. The opening reception will be held Sunday afternoon, Sept. 10. It should be an enjoyable event for everyone involved. Later in September will be our big annual used book sale.

I hope reading a good book is in your future. Here are some of the titles we've received in the last few weeks:

Adult Fiction - A Legacy of Vengeance by John Armistead, Dangerous to Know by Barbara Taylor Bradford, Burning Angel by

Snapshots

Jeri Oltman
Perquimans County
Librarian

James Lee Burke, Enemy's Enemy by Jan Guillou, and Lightning by Danielle Steel.

Large print - Second Chance at Love by Peggy Gaddis and Serendipity by Fern Michaels.

Reference - North Carolina Rural Services Directory.

Adult nonfiction - KidWare: The Parent's Guide to Software for Children by Michael C. Perkins & Celia H. Nunez, Motherless Daughters: The Legacy of Loss by Hope Edelman, First Things First: To Live, To Love, To Learn, To Leave a Legacy by Stephen R. Covey and others, Well Done! by Dave Thomas, and many others. Stop by.
