Matthews attends Summer Ventures

Crayton Matthews of Hertford successfully completed the Summer Ventures in Science and Mathematics program held on the campus of the University of North Carolina at Wilmington this summer.

Summer Ventures in Science and Mathematics is a four-week enrichment program for rising junior and senior high school students who possess both a talent and interest for science and mathematics. The program is the largest cost-free one of its kind in the nation.

Summer Ventures is offered on six campuses of the University of North Carolina and is administered by the North Carolina Schools of Science and Mathematics. Summer Ventures students live on the campuses of the host institutions and participate in research-oriented courses designed especially for the program and taught by university faculty and master teachers from the public schools.

Students attending the institute at UNCW were required to conduct a research project and to report the results of their work at the end of the program. Approximately 700 students attend Summer Ventures each year and are selected from an applicant pool of more than 1,400. Students are selected on the basis of their academic ability and demonstrated interest in science and mathematics.

Matthews is the son of John and Darla Matthews. He is an honor student at Perquimans County High School.

Library art show plans set

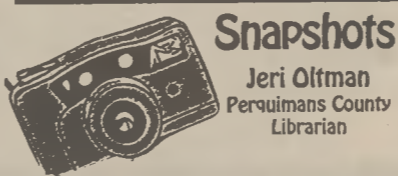

What is art? Many times I've heard a variation on the saying, "I'll know it when I see it." Well, I'm not going to try to define art, but I am willing to promote the arts in Perquimans County so that many people will be able to see it and judge for themselves.

In the past year I have met some very talented people and the library board's decision to sponsor a juried fine arts show and sale has afforded me the opportunity to work with some artists I might not have otherwise met. This year's exhibit will showcase the works of Perquimans County residents Rebecca France, Audrey Orlikowski, Stanley F. Smith, Linda Morris, Brenda Lee Daniels and Jackie Hobbs. In addition, Mary Haines Friesen of Fullerton, California and Snug Harbor will participate. Perquimans County natives Jerry Sullivan of Richmond, Va. and Patricia Long Crowder of Raleigh round out the roster of artists.

The efforts of the library board, library staff members and volunteers will culminate when the art show opens on Sunday, Sept. 10. David Green has volunteered his carpentry and painting skills to install a picture rail in the children's room so that we now have "gallery space." Mary Alice Brinn and Paige Underwood have volunteered to serve as co-chairs of this year's show and are presently busy planning the opening reception.

While everyone is invited to the opening reception on Sunday, Sept. 10 from 2-5 p.m., the show will be available for viewing during regular library hours through Tuesday, Sept. 26.

All works will be for sale. The library will receive a commission for each piece sold with the money raised earmarked for computerization of the card catalog.

While the art show will certainly be a highlight on my social calendar in September, there's more news on the arts front in Perquimans County. You may have seen articles in the paper about meetings for individuals interested in exploring the possibility of forming an arts council. After two meetings, the outlook is very positive that many people are interested in seeing such an endeavor succeed. Some information has already come to light about a similar council that existed in the 1970s.

If you're interested in joining this yet unnamed group, call the library at 426-5319 and we'll add you to our list.

Belvidere Academy marker to be dedicated

The Belvidere Homemakers Club will host the dedication of the Belvidere Academy Historical Marker on Saturday, Sept. 9 at 3 p.m.

Memorabilia of school days will be on display.

Belvidere Academy was opened by the Society of Friends, eventually becoming a noted boarding school. The school was eventually made a part of the Perquimans County Public School System. A fire destroyed the school building in 1935.

Because of its prominence in the history of Belvidere, the homemakers club raised funds to erect a marker at the site to keep its memory alive.
